WHEN COUNCIL MEETS.

Business of Importance Is Transacted By Them.

COL. WM. SHORTLIDGE PRES. PRO. TEM

Joseph Wise Approved as Fire Marshall For the Ensuing Year, Frank Taylor and M. Shields are the Assistants.

OTHER MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE.

The regular semi-monthly session of Council was held Monday evening in the Council chamber. The following members were present:

Messrs. Shortlidge, Lowery, Garrity, Shaffer, Valentine, Gerberich and Brachbill.

In the absence of President Hillibish, Col. William Shortlidge was called to the chair. Council was called to order and the minutes of the previous meeting were read. There being no corrections they stood approved.

A communication was received from Robert Cole, estimating the cost of a concrete floor for the inside of the public building at $137.00. Made of Mill Hall brick it would cost $125.00. He recommended the latter kind.

A petition was presented to Council representing that the mill dam owned by Col. W. Fred. Reynolds and partly in the borough, is a large body of water and is now grown up with moss and weeds, and that on Sundays the water is drawn off from said dam leaving the weeds and moss exposed, which causes a disagreeable odor, very much to the discomfort of the petitioners.

They, therefore, prayed Council to appoint a committee, whose duty it will be to investigate and see if said nuisance cannot be abated. It was signed by 26 residents of that vicinity and presented through Mr. Shortlidge.

The report of the Chief Fire Marshal, James Seibert, was then read. It showed everything in good running order. At a meeting of delegates from the fire companies Joseph Wise, of the Undine, was elected Fire Marshal for the ensuing year; Frank Taylor, 1st Assistant; M. Shields, of the Logan, 2d Assistant.

Chairman Brachbill, of the Street committee, reported cleaning up several streets, and hauling stone to crusher; repaired bridge over Spring creek at foot of High street.

Chairman Gerberich reported laying several water pipes. Have ordered front for boiler No. 1.

Fire and Police committee reported bursting of the suction pump belonging to the Undines. Ordered a new one and have received the bill. Three sections of hose burst at the fire at Johnson's stable and six sections at the fire in the McCafferty block. They have been repaired.

Mr. Shortlidge reported that complaint had been made to him that the High Constable was not doing his duty in regard to locking up the cows. Also recommended that the pound for keeping cows in should be repaired, as the floor is about worn out.

Clement Dale, Borough Solicitor, instructed Council that no one was permitted to build any cellar-way or entrance to the cellar that would occupy more than one-fourth of sidewalk in front of building. The question was brought up in discussing the entrance to the basement of the office occupied by Adams Express company.

Mr. Valentine moved that Colonel Reynolds be notified that complaint had been made to Council as to the condition of the mill-dam and that he be requested to do something to abate the nuisance. Seconded by Mr. Shaffer and carried.

The following bills were approved and orders drawn:

Water pay roll	$ 60 70
James Harris & Co., supplies for water works	10 01
Street pay roll	28 10

FIRE ON BISHOP STREET.

Mr. Joel Johnston Barn Burned to the Ground on Sunday.

On Sunday a fearful thunder storm passed over this section of the county and did much damage. And with the vivid streaks of lightening and the loud long thunder bolts, you would have thought the heavens were falling down

About one o'clock when the storm was at its height, the barn at the end of Mr Joel Johnston lot was struck by lightening. It was an awful hard stroke as it knocked the whole end of the barn in. The barn was partly filled with hay and straw and a one horse truck wagon, but had no live stock in it at all; which was very fortunate, as nothing could have been saved.

A very peculiar trick the lightening played Monday was, when it struck the barn, there was a wire clothes line attached to the barn, and the other end was fastened to a post about ten feet from the house. After stricking the barn it changed its course and ran down the line and then down the post to the steps knocking some of them clean out on the street a distance of about seventy feet, and tore the ground up in great shape

Jasper Stover was lying on a couch in the parlor and felt the shock, so much so that it affected his whole left side. The barn was totaly distroyed but we were informed Monday morning by MissJohnston that the barn was insured for $150 dollars. In one of the companies which Mr. Geo. L. Potter represents.

To the firemen, and the kind neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston and family wish us to extend through our paper, their many, many, thanks for their kindness.

A Fast Horse.

We are proud to say that Bellefonte has some of the finest horseflesh to be found in any town of its size in the country. Sometime ago we noted the fine stock in the stable of Mr. Mart Garman, whose horses are now making a big reputation on the track. But there are other owners of fast horses in Bellefonte; for instance, Mr. Shem Spigelmyer, who has owned some of the finest horses ever brought to this town. The present star of his stable is Orizaba, a brown filly; 15½ hands high; foaled in 1891; bred by C. F. Emory, Forest City Stock Farm, Cleveland, O. Her sire was Brown Wilkes, 2:21¼, sire of Bianaca, 2:19½; Sanjack, 2:19½; East End, 2:21¼; Witch Hazel, 2:21¼, and 26 others. Her first dam was Noma, by Nuggett, record 2:26¾; sire of Gold Leaf, 2:16¼; Saloga, 2:19½; Newton, 2:22; Carilla, 2:22½, and sire of 11 in the list and grandsire of 10 standard performers. Her 2nd dam was Varilla, by Middletown (152), sire of Mogul, 2:19½; Orange Bud, 2:21½; Music, 2:21½, and 10 others. Orizaba's 3rd dam was by Hector, sire of the dam of Carrie N., 2:27.

It will be seen by the above that she comes from the best stock, and she certainly gives promise of great things.

The Logan Picnic.

Cyrus Brumgard, of Millheim, has been especially engaged to take charge of the ox-roast at Hunters Park, on the date of the big Logan picnic to be held Labor Day, September 4th. He will be assisted by an able corp of assistants. Other sports are being provided for the day and a big time is expected.

Died of His Injuries.

DuBois, Pa., August 8.—Grant Alexander, who was shot at a drunken carnival in a grove near here Friday night, died at Adrian hospital to-day. He was unable to tell who shot him, as he was drunk at the time. He was with a party of tramps and women who have since disappeared.

STILL STICK TO WILLIE.

Even If He Has Gone to Mexico Where Silver Is Nil.

A SLOGAN FROM DEMOCRACY

Pathetic Appeal Issued by the Democratic Societies to Rally Around Bryan and Free Silver at the State Convention.

AN OBJECTION TO PROSPERITY.

HARRISBURG, August 17.—The executive committee of the democratic societies of Pennsylvania met here this afternoon and issued the following address:

The general assembly of the democratic societies of Pennsylvania is here and will meet on the 28th of September at Wilkesbarre, that city having been selected as the place by the general assembly of last year. We respectfully advise that every democratic society in the state comply promptly with the conditions of representation, choose their deputies at an early date and certify the same to the secretary, that the roll may be made up in good time, and our hosts at Wilkesbarre informed as nearly as possible as to the number to be expected. New societies will report their organization with lists of officers and members according to the organization.

The means by which the candidates of the democratic party, headed by William J. Bryan, were defeated last year are well known. We need not recount them. Every intelligent citizen understands them and every good citzen condemns the contest was between the people—the laboring and producing class on the one side, and the money and coercive power of a large number of powerful corporations and monopolies on the other, associated together for political action in furtherance of private as against public interests. The combined temptations and terrorism of the latter prevailed for a time. But the reaction has been sharp and decided. There is no longer any concealment of the purposes for which the election of a monopoly president and congress was carried by a means so corrupt and brutal. The interests concerned could not wait a needless hour for the spoils. Congress was immediately convened in extraordinary session to distribute the enormous plunder promised among the trusts and other greedy associates in the national crime of 1896 by the passage of an act imposing fresh taxes upon the people, not to supply the public treasury, but to turn a new and swelling stream of private profits into private pockets. The people understand and refer it. They know also that the gold currency monopoly is to be perpetually maintained for the same purpose, and that so long as this monopoly party remains in power the people are to be forced to pay increased taxes, the greater profits of the trusts and interest on loans in gold artificially enhanced by the practical and continuous demonetization of silver, one of the money metals of the present and the period of whose coinage on equal terms with gold was the period of least financial disturbance and of greatest prosperity in the history of the United States. Everywhere throughout the country the people are incensed and eager to reverse this mistaken action of last year.

In our own state we find no man bold enough to defend the remarkable excesses of the republican party in full power in every branch of the government. If the people of the commonwealth were not, like the people of other states, vitally interested in the event of the battle for the restoration of honest and constitutional government at Washington, every hororable citizen in Pennsylvania would find in the record of the last two years irresistible incentives to stand with every other honorable citizen in a common effort to wrest the several departments of our state government from the party which has so grossly abused its trust. We shall not here review those abuses in detail. They are fresh in the minds of the people—the reckless extravagance and corruption, the consistent contempt for awakened public opinion and remonstrances of those in authority, with the present difficulties of a depleted treasury, confused finances, unsystematic, entangled and unconstitutional taxation, are the subjects of daily thought and denunciation among all classes of the people. If there were no issues but state issues to be determined this year or next year or in 1900—when the American people propose in one grand sweep to take possession of their own—we have every reason to expect that the self-respecting voters of our state would do themselves the justice of changing radically the conditions under which we suffer at home. We look for that change in the vote of this year and of the years coming, until the reformation shall be complete. The evidences of its approach are on every side.

Under these circumstances the duty of the democratic party, of the democratic societies and of the individual democrat is plain. They have only to show by the conduct of their own party affairs, that they are worthy of the public confidence by the naming of true and honorable democrats for public offices, by steadfastly adhering to the sound principles of their national and state platforms, listening to no insidious councils of the common enemy to desert and betray them for any supposed temporary or local advantage by purging and strengthening their organization at all points, that it may not fail as heretofore, in the hour of trial—to secure the deliverance of the commonwealth in good time.

We hope to greet the representatives of every live democratic society in the state at Wilkesbarre to endorse and ratify the wise and patriotic action which this committee has every reason to believe will be taken by the regular democratic state convention at Reading.

Anarchist or Crank, Which?

PARIS, August 13.—An Italian named Gallini was arrested to-day at the Gare De Lyon here for violently threatening France and declaring that he intended to imitate Cæsario Santos, the assassin of President Carnot. The police have not yet decided whether the prisoner is an anarchist or merely a crank.

Boils, pimples and eruptions, scrofula, salt rheum and all other manifestations of impure blood are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Armor for a Battleship.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17.—The Carnegie Steel company has received an order from Cramps, the Philadelphia ship builders, for thirty tons of diagonal armor, to be used in the construction of the battleship Alabama. The price is not made public but it is probable the builders will pay Carnegie's more for the armor than they will get for it from the government.

MINES ARE ON FIRE.

Here Is Trouble in a Great Drift Out in California.

WORKMEN MAKE NARROW ESCAPES'

The Blaze May Have Started from Spontaneous Combustion—A Description of What the Mine Held.

EFFORTS TO QUIET THE TROUBLE.

ANGELS CAMP, Cal., August 17.—The great Utica mines are on fire. Flames and smoke were discovered coming from the 800-foot level, station No. 4, at 9 o'clock this morning. It was with difficulty that the shift made their escape. Six men were cut off, but made their way through the south end of the new shaft. The fire is supposed to have originated from spontaneous combustion, caused by lard and coal oil.

It is impossible at present to estimate the extent of the loss the fire will cause, but it is safe to say that it will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Not only are the mine owners affected, but the whole town of Angels Camp, which contains a population of 6,000, who are almost wholly dependent upon the miners employed in the Utica group of mines. There are 1,000 men employed by the company, and should the fire prove as serious as reported, these men will be left in destitute circumstances. Every effort is being made to quench the fire as rapidly as possible but gas and smoke are escaping from all the shafts which are being rapidly bulkheaded. While stopping up the Utica shafts several firemen were suffocated. The mine is rapidly being flooded. All the main pipes have been cut and about three thousand miners' inches of water are pouring into the shafts. An eight inch hose is playing water into the Stickle shaft, where the fire was first discovered. It will take at least four days to flood the mine, and it is estimated that in case no more serious results should happen afterward it will take at least two months to pump out the water and fit the mines for regular operation.

On July 21, 1895, a similar fire occurred, and it was seven weeks before work could be resumed. The shafts are deeper now and it will take a much longer time.

The Utica mine, which is the largest quartz gold mine worked by the Chlorinadon process, containing 200 stamps and fourteen roasting ovens, besides an immense amount of necessary machinery, is owned by the Hobart estate. A considerable amount of the property formerly belonged to the late Senator Fair. It is estimated that the net profits of the mine exceed $1,500,000 per annum.

AN AWFUL STORM.

Buffalo Run Valley Was Greatly Affected By Sunday's Storm.

The storm that passed over Bellefonte on Sunday seemed to have prevailed all over the county, from the reports that have come to us. Up the Buffalo Run valley it must have been something terrible as it tore trees out by the roots, blew houses down, and unroofed the large watering tank near Waddles station. There was tons of sand over on the railroad which caused a delay of about two hours Monday morning, but everything is running again in good order. Mr. Rockey, a very pleasant gentleman, gave us the following particulars. He says:

"Mr. Frank Blair has some of the finest cattle up the Buffalo Run valley, and Sunday he had eight of them in the field feeding on grass. and when the storm came up they took shelter under some trees along the foot of the mountain. They were all standing with their heads together when they were struck by lightening killing everyone of them, and in the evening when the man went to the field for the cattle he found them all lying in a pile on the top of one another. Mr. Blair was a very fortunate man as he has all of his stock insured at twenty dollars a head in the Grange Insurance company."

There were four houses struck by lightening at Beech Creek and one house at Milesburg, all being damaged a great deal.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

The Anarchist of the Primer of Spain.

VERGARA, August 16.—Michel Angiollillo, the anarchist assassin of Premier Canovas Del Castillo, who was tried by court martial, was found guilty and sentenced to death. Upon hearing the sentence Angiollillo turned deathly pale and had to be assisted from the court room. About 200 persons were present at the trial. The vicinity of the prison was almost deserted, the public being apparently indifferent, in view of the fact that the death penalty was to be inflicted by court martial.

Angiollillo [illegible] between two [illegible] in front [illegible] while the diffusion of the white race, [illegible] by the extension of railroads [illegible] broader application of machinery to [illegible]ture, with facilities of transportation [illegible] the white regions, introducing [illegible] read by the clerk of the court, Angiollillo, in the course of the statement, said that he left Foggia in October, 1885, and went to Marseilles and Barcelona, where he took the name of Jose Santos. At first he had no thought of becoming an anarchist, but while at Coromini he began to be interested in anarchistic doctrines. He then returned to Marseilles and after his expulsion from that city he went to Belgium and London, where he passed most of his time in the society of anarchists.

When the execution took place at Barcelona on May 4th of five of the anarchists convicted of participation in the bomb outrage at the feast of Corpus Christi, he conceived the idea of assassinating Canovas. Without seeking an accomplice, he proceeded to Spain and carried out the resolution.

Angiollillo went on to say that the passion for vengeance led him to commit the crime. As he was unacquainted with the manufacture of explosives, he used the revolver.

The public prosecutor described the crime as "premeditated murder" and asked the court to impose the death penalty.

Lieutenant Gorria, whom the court had assigned as counsel to Angiollillo, urged that the prisoner was demented at the time of the shooting and made a strong appeal to the benevolence of the judges.

While his council was presenting this plea, Angiollillo listened in silence. Then he asked permission to speak for himself, which was granted. He thanked Lieutenant Gorria for his efforts and denied that he had any accomplices, or that he was an accomplice of those who committed the bomb throwing outrage at Barcelona, or that he had participated in secret gatherings of anarchists. When he began to discuss anarchist theories, the president of the court interrupted him and threatened to stop him if he pursued that line of remark or touched upon any matters not connected with the trial.

Angiollillo persisted in speaking of plays and of the wars in Cuba and the Philippine islands. The president said: "All that has nothing to do with your crime."

He replied: "I must justify myself."

The president retorted: "That is no justification. Moreover you can convince nobody in that way."

Angiollillo began again but the president declared the trial ended and ordered the court room cleared.

After the prisoner had been conducted to his cell the judges deliberated for an hour and then announced the sentence of the court.

SILVER IN THIS COUNTY.

Quartz Said to Have Been Discovered Near Bellefonte.

Schadd brothers, of this place, announce that they have discovered a vein of silver quartz near here. Specimens have shown from two to three per cent. silver. They refuse to disclose the location of the vein, but are endeavoring to enlist capitalists in the discovery with a view to working the find. A few years ago several large lumps of quartz were exhibited by Thomas Rhoades, but he could not interest men with money to pursue a thorough investigation.

WILL THERE BE TROUBLE?

There Seems to Be a Culmination of Matters at Turtle Creek,

THE MATTER TO COME INTO COURT.

Will the Miners Who Are on a Strike Continue Their Marches To-Day Is Now the Uppermost Question of All.

WHAT COURT OFFICIALS WILL DO.

PITTSBURG, Pa., August 12.—Sweeping and far reaching injunctions now figure in the coal mine strike in the Pittsburg district. The developments of to-day tend to make the situation a strange one and it appears that the crisis is now at hand.

The strikers have demonstrated that their assemblages, marches and missionary work have materially affected the output of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal compa[illegible]hile at the same time public sympa[illegible]enlisted in their cause, The [illegible]nation issued two weeks[illegible]men from assembling [illegible]en a dead letter and [illegible]n continued daily [illegible]nd has occu[illegible]n-trivi[illegible]y by [illegible] brings the [illegible] courts for settlement. [illegible] and Monday morning [illegible] looked forward to with [illegible] miners and their offi[illegible] that they are keeping within the law and have the right to assemble in peace and demonstrate to the world that they are being wronged by a rate of wages that keeps them constantly at the point of starvation; also that they have a right to use their position and influence among men who are operating against their interests by continuing at work.

The New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company on the other hand assert that the marches and assemblages are unlawful and a menace to their employes, many of whom, they say, are willing to work providing the strikers remain away. Looking at the matter from this standpoint the company made its radical move to-day in the courts to bring about a condition under which the company can operate its mines.

If the [illegible]ntinue their marches in the [illegible]y now say they will in defiance of the [illegible]unction, capias will be issued for the [illegible]ndens on the charge of contempt of court. Should the injunction be [illegible] strikers escape arrest they will [illegible] seem to extinct. The [illegible] ended over the turn of events, so far as the differences.

Developments at Connellsburg are being watched closely. The avowed intention of the miners to march to-morrow morning despite Judge McIlvaine's injunction is expected to result in bloodshed or the filling of the county prisons with the arrested miners.

Another Strike.

SAGINAW, Mich., August 11.—About 150 miners of the Saginaw Coal Company struck to-day for a raise of 15 cents per ton. They have been getting 70 cents for all coal over a seven-eighths screen. The strike was started by thirty-five miners who came here from Ohio last week and were given work.

Suit Instituted Against Ex-Auditor.

PITTSBURG, August 12.—Ex-National Vice President Cameron Miller, of the United Mine Workers association entered suit to-day for $5,000 damages against P. B. De Armitt, superintendent of the Turtle Creek mines of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company for alleged malicious prosecution. In addition to serving [illegible] on Monday, Ex. De Armitt had him arrested on charges of [illegible] and conspiracy. These charges were not substantiated at the preliminary hearing of the original case and he was discharged.

Three Strikes, Then Out.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., August 11.—Wah-teh-nish will, on Saturday, play his last game of base ball, for on Monday he will be shot for killing an Indian. The young Choctaw brave is now in this city with two base ball teams of his tribe, practicing steadily for a game which will be played in Fairmount Park on Saturday. After the game is played and the last man is out Wah-teh-nish will give up base ball and go ont and get shot.

If Wah-teh-nish only gets a chance and knocks out a homer when the score is tied in the ninth inning and all the bases are full, the sporting blood of the Choctaw governor may tingle so in admiration that he will pardon Wah-teh-nish, but the contingency is a romote one.

Some time ago Wah-teh-nish had a dispute with another Indian and sent his soul to the happy hunting grounds rather than continue the argument. He was tried under the tribal laws and condemned to be shot on Saturday, August 14.

He realized the justice of this sentence and expressed his entire willingness to pay the life forfeit, but the date fixed for his execution annoyed him, for he knew that on Saturday he would be needed by his team to play base ball.

He was afraid that his nine would lose if a substitute played in his stead, so he conferred with his fellows and they petitioned the governor of the Choctaw nation to postpone the funeral.

The governor is fond of base ball himself and he is the last man in the world to spoil sport, so he said he would put off the taking off of Wah-teh-nish until Monday next. Wah-teh-nish was delighted. He expressed his appreciation of the governor's sportmanslike behavior and delicacy and said he would be on hand Monday to be shot.

The Next Big Picnic.

The next big picnic at Hecla Park in which Bellefonte is generally interested will be that of the Clinton and Centre county Veterans Associations, which takes place on the 11th of September. Capt. G. T. Michaels, secretary of the Clinton county Veterans Association and W. H. Musser, secretary of the Centre county Veterans Club met at Hecla Park Thursday to perfect arrangements for the event.

A Parson's Story.

An itinerant parson tells that way out "in the backwoods" he came, one day, to a settler's house, and entered to have a talk with its inmates. The old woman of the house became much interested in the preacher's discourse, and requested that his sermon end family worship. She also insisted upon hunting up her family Bible, to be used upon the occasion.

She left the room to look up the Bible, but seemed to have hard work finding it. The minutes passed and she came not. The preacher had time to grow impatient before the old woman reappeared with a few tattered leaves in her hand.

She handed them over with an apologetic air, "I'm awful sorry, parson," she explained, "but the fact is, I didn't know I was so near out of Bibles!"

Consolidation for the Duch.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—A new and surprising situation has arisen in connection with the proposed duel between Prince Henry of Orleans and Gen. Albertone, of the Italian army, over the prince's comments upon the alleged cowardice of the Italian soldiers in Abyssinia. The King of Italy had sent his nephew, the Duke of Aosta, to Paris to make an attempt to prevent the duel, and Gen. Albertone had replied that it is impossible for him to retreat. Now comes the announcement that a very high Italian personage claims for himself the privilege of meeting Princ Henry and it is conjecture that this personage is the Duke of Aosta, to whose precedence Gen. Albertone must give way.

Another report is that the intending duelist is the Count of Turin, Prince Victor Emmanuel, of the house of Savoy-Aosta. He was born in 1870, and is the son of the late Duke of Aosta, a nephew of King Humbert, with the rank of major in the Italian cavalry. His intervention would bring about a somewhat anomalou situation, for the Count, being the brother of the present Duke of Aosta, is the brother-in-law of Prince Henry's cousin. Princess Helene, whom the Duke of Aosta married in 1895.

While Prince Henry opened his mail at Marseilles, he found several letters written by cranks in Italy, who threatened to [illegible] Albertone fall [illegible]

Love in a Ballot Box.

The American girl, admired and sought by all the world, seems to be in danger of forfeiting a measure of this universal esteem through the eccentricity of a few of her. Still fresh in our minds are the several cases widely published last fall, in each of which some fair maid, distinguished for her charms in her particular community, promised to wed a suitor only in the event of Mr. Bryan's election as president of the United States. The absurdity of this politico-romantic feminine mania was proven by the sequel; for not only was the man in each case robbed of the lady of his choice through no fault of his own—he being individually incapable of controlling the federal election—but each lady doubtless imperiled her chances of securing a proper husband elsewhere by casting a serious reflection upon her own intelligence in insisting upon so hard a condition.

Now comes Kentucky, where romance is popularly supposed to be as deep as a well, considerably wider than a church door, and wholly unfettered by irrelative considerations. The Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court in the Louisville district would become a bridegroom, but the lady of his heart will not become his wife unless he succeeds in defeating the Republican candidate.

These are hard lines; for while the Louisville case is less difficult than were those of last November, inasmuch as the suitor is himself in the influential position of candidate and is laboring in a concentrated territory; he is still compelled to regard public office not as a public trust, but as a "private snap"—however pure may have been his motives at the outset of his political career. And Kentucky womanhood must be held responsible for his downfall.

It is all wrong. These American girls are gambling with fate, and broken hearts are the stake. They should get back to the good, honest, old-fashioned style. Let them stick to Cupid, not cupidity, in their courting. Mr. Watterson's star-eyed goddess of Democratic reform sleeping, or has she abandoned Louisville?—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Ready to Brake Jail.

DOVER, Del., August 11.—Sheriff Shaw, Deputy Downs and Jailer Boggs to-night visited the cell occupied by Charles Saffo, James Murphy and William Mason, serving three years for burglary at Farmington, who had acted suspiciously all day, and found that they had made preparations to break jail and liberate several other prisoners. The trio had managed to cut a hole fourteen by ten through three tiers of bricks, from the cell in which they were locked to an unoccupied cell, which was habitually left unlocked. They had also made a long ladder with which to reach the window after they had gained the corridor. Two knives, two files, a railroad spike and a tack hammer were found in the cell. Sheriff Shaw says that hereafter indulgencies towards prisoners will cease and discipline will be strictly enforced. It was the intention after gaining the corridor to liberate James Gibson, Herman Think and John McColley, who are serving a nine months sentence for assaulting an officer. All the parties concerned are white.

THE APPEAL DISMISSED.

An Important Opinion of Judge Ashman of Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Judge Ashman filed an opinion to-day in the orphans' court dismissing the appeal of Bertram Dawson Coleman from the decision of the Register of Wills, under which there was admitted to probate the will of the appellant's cousin, George Dawson Coleman, deceased.

Robert Coleman, deceased, the father of George Dawson Coleman, had an interest in the Cornwall mines, at Lebanon, Pa., estimated at from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000. The son, George Dawson Coleman, under his father's will, had the appointment or right to will a great portion of this. Under the son's will everything was left to his mother, Mrs. Rosalie Parent Coleman. A large amount of litigation followed. The appellant contended that the son was unduly influenced by his mother in the making of the will.

The family always lived in Paris.

The hearing in the matter took place before Judge Ashman last May and a vast amount of evidence was presented. The court, in its opinion to-day, reviewed this evidence at great length and held that the only issue presented by the pleadings was that of undue influence, and that the evidence in support thereof would not be sufficient to sustain a verdict against the will. The action of the Register in admitting the will to probate was affirmed. Young Coleman lived rather a fast life and had the habits of a spendthrift. In 1889 he married Louise Ybanez after an acquaintance of three months, and he separated from her four months after the marriage. Divorce proceeding were pending at the time of his death in 1891. He made no mention of his widow in his will and she joined as a party in contesting the document, but her suit was dismissed. The only other contestants were collateral relatives.

It was shown in the evidence that in consequence of a dislike for business detail and to having dealings with lawyers, he conveyed his entire estate to his mother in consideration of $30,000 a year during his life and an additional $30,000 a year after marriage.

Another reason for conveying the property to her as presented in evidence by the mother was that he wanted to exclude his cousin, whom he disliked.

The court, as stated, ruled that the evidence did not sustain the point of undue influence, and furthermore that the young man was privileged to will the property to whom he pleased.

They May Want Fees.

HARRISBURG, August 11.—Insurance Commissioner Lambert said to-night relative to the proposition by certain insurance commissioners of western states to examine the eastern insurance companies that the suggestion comes from some of the populist states, where they have diseased views of every sort of corporations and of the employment of capital in legitimate enterprises. The examination, it undertaken, Colonel Lambert added, would be a mere farce in most instances, since they could not have any thoroughness, and the result would add nothing to the character of a company, no matter how good its standing. He claims there is no need of examination of eastern companies by other than their own departments, and in most instances out side examinations are made for the fees.

Elder Wm. Tennison

OF BUFKIN, IND.,

Tells of the Great Benefits Derived From Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

HEART DISEASE of long standing is not easily cured, but it IS CURABLE. Elder Wm. Tennison writes: "I was afflicted for thirty-five years with heart disease, in fact, troubled with it nearly all my life; I think it hereditary as my father was afflicted with it. I have suffered great distress, my heart palpitated to such an extent as to shake my whole body. So distressing was it I could only with greatest difficulty compose myself to sleep. About two years ago I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. The first bottle gave me no perceptible benefit, but after taking the third I began to feel much relief and I continued for some months. I have good reason to believe the cure is permanent.

A DESERTED VILLIAGE.

Everybody and Their Friends Go to the Business Mens Picnic,

AN IDEAL DAY FOR AN OUTING

The Railroad Taxed to Its Utmost to Accomodate the Crowds—The Attendance Variously Estimated at From Ten to Fifteen Thousand.

EXCITING BICYCLE RACES.

The big day is over and the second annual picnic of the Business Men of Centre and Clinton counties has passed into history as one of the greatest affairs of the kind ever held in this vicinity. The crowd was simply immense, and the beautiful park was packed from one end to the other with a good-natured, jolly crowd bent on having a good time. Everything passed off smoothly and there was very little disorder. The weather was all that could be desired, being fair and cool. A slight shower passed over the park at about 1:30, but it only served to lay the dust.

Bellefonte presented something of the appearance of a deserted village during the day; the biggest part of the population being at the park. Business was practically suspended all day, nearly all the stores being closed. The exodus from town began when the early train left the station of the Central Railroad of Penn'a. at 7:20. Long before it pulled out it was jammed full of people clear out onto the platforms. And so it was with every train that left the station during the morning and afternoon, until it seemed as if there could not be another soul left in town. The Railroad Company worked hard and transported the people to the grounds as fast as possible. The officers of the company, from Superintendent Gephart down, deserve the highest praise for the prompt manner in which they handled the crowds. It is hard to estimate the number on the grounds, many claiming that there were at least 15,000 people there; but a careful estimate places the number at 10,000. There were 2,250 tickets sold at Bellefonte and over 2,500 at Lock Haven, besides those from intermediate points. Jersey Shore sent a big delegation to Hecla, 225 tickets being sold from that station. Over one hundred people walked from Lock Haven to Castanea and rode from there to Mill Hall on the Beech Creek train. A large delegation from Williamsport came up on the morning trains to see the crowd at the park. The crowd at the park was enormous, the people have begun flocking in at an early hour from all parts of the two counties, coming in vehicles of all kinds, and many hundreds arriving on foot.

The affair throughout was a very successful one and will further serve to cement the friendship between the citizens of Lock Haven and Bellefonte.

The day was spent very pleasantly, exchanging greetings and witnessing the sports. Tub races, bicycle races, foot races, swimming matches and base ball were the order of the day. In the evening there was a brilliant display of fireworks on the lake, under the direction of Mr. John D. Sourbeck, of Bellefonte.

LIVE-BIRD SHOOTING CONTEST.

The live-bird shooting contest between four men from Lock Haven and four from Bellefonte, with Will Haines, of Snow Shoe, shooting with the Bellefonte team, and George Uzzle, of the same place, shooting with the Lock Haven team, resulted as follows:

	Lo t B's.	Dead B's.

Haines and Bower, of this place, and Uzzle, of Lock Haven, shot at only nine birds each.

THE RACES.

The bicycle races were close and exciting. The judges were: John H. Walker, of Bellefonte, and L. H. Anthony, of Lock Haven. Timers: Max Hayes, of Lock Haven, and Charles Richards, of Bellefonte. Clerk, P. H. Geary of Lock Haven. Referee, G. T. Bush, of Bellefonte. Starter:——.

The first final did not come within time of 2:40 placed by Referee Bush and was ordered run over, when 2:42 was made and passed.

The tub race, which took place at 10:45, had four contestants. It was won by "Duck" Peters; second, Kale Miller.

The swimming match came off at 11:15 a. m. Won by Peters; Harry Peters second.

The foot race came off at 12:00 m. It was a one-third mile race and was won by Arthur B. Gill, of State College; second, J. W. Duff, of State College; Third, Brooks Butler, of Philipsburg.

BASE BALL GAME.

A very interesting game of base ball took place at 2:30, between Lock Haven and Williamsport, which resulted in favor of the latter by a score of 4 to 2.

The committee in charge of the picnic feel highly gratified over the success of the affair and they certainly deserve much credit.

The following named gentlemen were in charge: Hammond Sechler, of Bellefonte, president; G. Walter Fredericks, of Lock Haven, treasurer; W. F. Elliot, of Lock Haven, secretary; T. J. Smull, Mackeyville; S. H. Bennison, Jacksonville; W. H. Noll, Pleasant Gap; A. C. Mann, Mill Hall; Luther Furst, Cedar Springs; S. Z. Martin, W. Kittler, P. P. Rittman, Lock Haven; Thos. Shoemaker, J. Will Conley, and Col. Wm. Shortlidge, of Bellefonte. The following bands were present: Lock Haven, State College, Consolidated Milesburg and Coleville, Pleasant Gap, and Undine.

Nuptials at Beech Creek.

The wedding march was played by Mr. Chauncey Delong. The bride's dress was white silk and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, the dresses of the bridesmaids were white organdie.

The decorations were golden rod. There were upwards of fifty guests present to witness the ceremony.

After refreshments had been served the bride and groom departed on their wedding tour and on their return will make their home at Punxsutawney.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner. The bride received many beautiful gifts.

A BEAUTIFUL LIFE ENDED.

Sarah Jane Irwin, Mother of Robert H. Irwin, Passes Away.

Thursday evening at 7 o'clock the silent angel of death entered the home of Robt. H. Irwin, on Spring street, and took hence the soul of his beloved mother, to that higher and happy home above, where the Master has promised "In my Father's house of many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you, I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you I will come again and receive you unto myself." And so this mother who has been suffering quite a long time has been looking forward and building on this promise which made her life happy although she suffered much.

It really seems hard to lose one who has always been so near and dear and always your best friend through life, but the Master has something better in store for her or He would not have taken her away. Mrs. Irwin has always been a consistant member of the Presbyterian church and even from her childhood up she has known nothing else than to love and teach others of the love of Jesus Christ. She would very often relate some of her christian incidents and by these wonderful testimonies we are assured, and they give us much comfort to know she is reigning with Him on high and has already realized that beautiful hymn: "I shall see him face to face and tell the story saved by grace."

Mrs. Irwin had reached the ripe old age of 73 years, and during all these many years she has lived a very useful life. She had always been very charitable and kind to the poor, and now when she knows she has obeyed the command in "selling all that she had and given to the poor," she said she was ready for the summons to go home. It must have been certainly a very happy thought and it must be a comfort to those whom she has left behind, only to follow very shortly. Mrs. Sarah Irwin was the wife of the late Samuel M. Irwin, who preceeded her to that home above a number of years ago. She was born in Centre county, Jan. 20th, 1824, making her age 73 years, 6 months and 23 days. The cause of mother Irwin's death was old age. During the latter days of her life she had been afflicted with different diseases which had run her system entirely down and so she had nothing to build on. She leaves one sister and three brothers and two sons to mourn their loss but her gain. Mrs. Maggie Wakefield, of Lock Haven, James H. Holmes, of State College; Robt. L. Holmes, of Lock Haven; and John Holmes, of Jacksonville. Her sons are: John J. Irwin, of Altoona; and Robt. H., of Bellefonte, at whose home she died.

Saturday morning short services was held at the house of Robt. Irwin's on Spring street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Stevens, of the Methodist church. Dr. Laurie, her pastor, being away on his vacation. The funeral cortege then proceed to Jacksonville and services held in the Presbyterian church at that place, and thence to the family burying ground where they were interred all that was left of that loving mother.

One of Two Ways.

The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second way is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back bladder or urinary passage is often, by mistake, attributed to female weakness or womb trouble of some sort. The error is easily made and may be as easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty four hours; a sediment or settling indicates kidney or bladder trouble. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, and bladder remedy is soon realized. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail. Mention this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton N. Y. the proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

BURGLERS CAPTURED.

The Robbers of the Barnsboro Post Office Come to Grief.

Two suspicious characters are now lodged in the Blair county jail to answer for the robbery of the postoffice at Barnesboro, Cambria county. They were taken to the county capital and will have a hearing before United States Commissioner McLeod to-day. To the Tyrone Herald, we are indebted for the following account of their capture. The Herald of Friday evening says:

Burglars paid a visit to the postoffice at Barnesboro, Cambria county, about 3 o'clock Friday morning and carried away booty in money and stamps to the value of $315. Edward Huver is the postmaster, and had the office in the front room of his residence. The burglars entered through a back window of the dwelling portion and easily made their way to the office from their. They blew the safe open with powder, took $140 in cash and $175 in stamps, and were seen making their escape in the darkness just as the citizens aroused by the noise arrived at the scene. The postmaster was also aroused by the noise, and, suspecting robbery, started at once to the office, only to find that the door at the foot of the stairs was securely barred on the outside, and the only way he could get down was by jumping out of a second story window. While he was contemplating this the neighbors arrived and unfastened the door which the robbers had barricaded. The fleeing men were not seen clearly enough to permit of a description, and the only clue they left was a chisel which they had probably used in getting in through a window.

But very slight clues are sufficient for Railroad Officer A. R. Barr, who spent twelve hours on the trail, and this morning bagged his game.

Two suspicious looking men boarded mail express at Bellwood last evening, one having bought a ticket to New York, the other a ticket to Lewistown. Baggage Agent Bratton noticed the men and sent word to Officer Barr, at Tyrone, that they would bear watching. Officer Barr was quickly ready for a chase and he, too, boarded mail express at Tyrone. The two men left the train at Mill Creek and walked to Mount Union, where they spent the night. Officer Barr spent the night in hunting them, finally learning that they had boarded an eastbound freight this morning. Officer Barr went to Lewistown, secured the assistance of Conductor George Eyster's shifting crew and waited patiently for the arrival of the train upon which the men were riding. As they attempted to alight from the cars at Lewistown they were neatly surrounded and Officer Barr made them prisoners. They were captured at 8 o'clock this morning.

No donbt remained as to the guilt of the parties when they had been searched. They had with them about $130 in cash and an old registry envelope containing a large quantity of postage stamps. The envelope had been directed to Barnesboro. The cash and stamps found tally closely with Mr. Huver's description of his loss. Officer Barr brought the two men to Tyrone on way passenger and confined them in the lockup to await the coming of a postoffice inspector, Post-Master Conrad having immediately telegraphed of the capture to General Edgarton, division chief inspector, at Philadelphia. The prisoners refused to give their names.

It is a neat capture by Tyrone's vigilant officer, who remained up all night, journeying back and forth between Huntingdon and Lewistown, all the while taking care not to make the final stroke until he was sure of his men and of a good chance for capture. He will be handsomely rewarded for the night's work. The postoffice department has a standing offer of $150 reward for the conviction of burglars who steal anywhere from $100 to $500 from any postoffice. Where a safe is blown open the reward is $200. The Barnesboro safe was blown open, and Mr. Barr will therefore likely receive $200 reward for his capture.

One of the robbers carried a silveroid watch, and it was at first thought that it might be the one stolen from Postmaster Gibson Barr, at Hollidaysburg, a few nights ago. Inquiry at Hollidaysburg, however, satisfied the officers that the watch is not the one stolen from Postmaster Barr.

A Meritorious Performance.

Welsh Bros.' circus, which appeared in Easton last season, began a three-days' engagement on the vacant lot, at the corner of Ninth and Lehigh streets, yesterday afternoon by giving one of the best performances, at low prices, ever seen in Easton. Last night the "house" was packed, and doubtless everyone was pleased. The performance is well worth the low price of admission, some of the acts alone—notably Karslake's pig circus and Dan Rice Jr's. trick mules—being worth the price of admission. Robert Walter, son of Aaron Walter, of the American hotel, of this city, is one of the performers, and he was roundly applauded in his aerial act.—Easton, Pa., Free Press.

This elegantly conducted show will appear in this city, Monday Aug. 16 1897, giving two performances.

Sudden Death at Curwensville.

Mrs. Sarah Teats, of East Bishop street, received a telegram Friday morning announcing the sudden death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Teats, of Curwensville, Thursday night. Funeral took place at Curwensville Saturday afternoon last at 4:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Catherine Teats, nee Miss Catharine Long was born in Aaronsburg in 1830. She resided at that place with her parents until the time of her marriage, when they departed and lived in Ohio for a period of 3 years at the expiration of which time they returned to Bellefonte. While in this city Mrs. Teats was a very devoted member of the Presbyterian church. Mr. and Mrs. Teats resided in Bellefonte about 20 years after which they moved to Curwensville where Mr. Teats has been engaged in the grocery business for the past eleven years.

The deceased was about 60 years old and had been an invalid for the past twenty years; but her death at this time was unexpected and was due to rheumatism of the heart.

Died of an Unknown Disease.

DuBois, Pa., August 13.—Within the last few days four deaths have occurred among the Falls Creek tannery employes, two miles from this city, and several others are reported very ill. Some time ago the tannery company received the first invoice of 100,000 hides, imported from China. The hides were started through the process of tanning and the liquors drained into the creek. Not long afterwards several head of cattle running at large, died, and to this date a score have gone to the bone yard. It was discovered that the cattle drank water from the creek. The tannery employes were taken sick and four have died so far.

Investigation revealed the fact that the hides were infected with anthrax bacteria. Only one man who has been afflicted has recovered. The disease proves fatal in from five to eight days. Considerable alarm exists at Falls Creek over the fatal affects and possible spread of the disease. The matter has been kept secret as possible but it is understood that it has been referred to the state board of health.

There is undue weariness unexspected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's favorite Prescription exerts wonderful power over women's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weakness, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Levied on the Dogs.

Constable John Dunlap, of this place, last Monday had a landlord's warrant placed in his hands to collect some rent that was due from a tenant residing in Spring township, near the borough. The constable failed to collect the money and proceeded to levy on seven female dogs and advertised them for sale. Recently the Court decided that dogs that were assessed were personal property, and those not assessed were the same as wild animals, and subject to the same treatment. In looking over the township's assess book there are only five female dogs found assessed, none of which are in the district where the seven levied upon reside. How is John going to collect the cost from his levy? is a question bothering legal minds of this place. Grit.

While the diffusion of the value of land by the extension of railroads and the broader application of machinery to agriculture, with facilities of transportation from remote regions, introducing new sources of supplies to the markets, reduced the price of wheat, and these causes were beyond the control of the farmers, there were faults in the farm methods of which they should be sensible. They seemed to be anxious to exhaust the wheat areas on their own land, and committed the same error in that particular that has damaged the Southern cotton planters. Let the farmers have diversity of crops.

Miners in an Ugly Mood.

Kingwood, W. Va., August 12.—The miners at Corinth are in an ugly mood and threatened the property of the company and the life of Superintendent Anderson. The sheriff was notified and left this morning with United States Marshall Jackson for the scene of the trouble. If needed, deputies will be put on guard and order restored even if force of arms necessary to accomplish it.

Drowned in the Delaware.

Easton, Pa., August 18.—Frederick C. Zitz, about 20 years old, of New York, was drowned in the river at Delaware Water Gap about 10 o'clock this morning. At 3 o'clock this afternoon the body had not been recovered.

Before rendering the opinion that Secretary Gage has requested as to whether the 10 per cent discriminating duty provided in the Dingley tariff for goods imported from Canada applied to goods from Japan or other foreign countries invoiced to an American port but received at that port over a Canadian railroad, Attorney General McKenna, by request, gave verbal hearings to Ex-Secretary Carlisle, representing the Boston & Maine railroad; Ex-Assistant Secretary Hamlin, representing the Board of Trade and the Merchant's Association of Boston, and others, who argued against the discriminating duty being applicable to such goods. Attorney General McKenna announced that he would give Messrs. Carlisle and Hamlin until Wednesday to file briefs, after which he would render his opinion as early as possible. Secretary Gage will not make a ruling on the question until he gets the Attorney General's opinion.

SPENT SUNDAY QUIETLY.

There Was No Undue Excitement in the Miners' Camp.

PITTSBURG, August 15.—A leaden sky and fitful showers contributed to the feeling of depression which existed at the miners' camps at Turtle and Plum Creeks to-day. The men huddled together for shelter under the commissary tents and having nothing else to do put the time in smoking and discussing the strike in all its phases. The spirit of aggressiveness, however, has largely died out. The same grim determination to stick it out until starvation brings defeat, or their efforts victory, is apparent, but there are no propositions to attain their end by force or go contrary to the sheriff's orders.

The men all realize that in opposing the law as represented by the sheriff and his deputies they would have about the same success as in butting their heads against a stone wall. They have no particular love for the deputies, although there is an absence of that caustic repartee between the factions that has characterized former strikes.

There were no marches this morning. This has been the usual Sunday custom at all the camps, but even if it had been otherwise, the strict orders of all strike leaders to wait until after Monday would have prevented them. Sunday has usually been used by the men to do missionary work among the working miners. None of them attempted to see any workmen, however, and kept severely away from the company houses. The march into Westmoreland county will begin as soon as the injunction is settled in court. Much anxiety is expressed as to the outcome. The men stake everything on their ability to show the right to assemble and march on the public road.

This afternoon there was a large mass meeting at Plum Creek. About 1,000 strikers and 200 miners from the Plum Creek mine were present. Speeches were made by President Ratchford, Samuel Gompers, James R. Sovereign and the local leaders. The meeting was orderly and there was no interference from the deputies.

There is a possibility of the customary march taking place in the early morning in spite of the strict orders issued by President Dolan against such a course. Some of the men are fretting under the restraint, and Captain Bellingham, who is in charge of the camp, said to-night that he had not decided whether to allow the march or not. The deputies are on the alert and say they will arrest any who make the attempt.

Evictions from the company houses has begun. One family has already been evicted and their household goods are on the roadside. It is probable other evictions will take place to-morrow.

for those who go to-day and get a package of GRAIN-O. It takes the place of coffee at about ¼ the cost and can be given to the children as well as the adult with great benefit. Ask your grocer for Grain-O. 15c. and 25c

MR. BRYAN'S silence, which has created so much surprise of late, is accounted for by the announcement that the leaders of his party have taken him into a woodshed and informed him that while speech may be silver silence is golden, and that he had better go onto the gold platform so far as speech making is concerned.

THOSE Democratic parrots who are reiterating the assertion that a protective tariff is a breeder of trusts seem to have already forgotten that trusts never flourished in this country as they did under the three years of the Democratic tariff, which the people in their might wiped from the face of the statute books by their vote of last November.

Deserted by his Bride.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 13.—John Beaver of Mt. Savage, this country, aged 65 years, advertised for a wife, which was answered by Maggie Lambert, a pretty young woman of Parsons, W. Va. She met Beaver here last night and they were married and left for the groom's home, where they were refused admission by his children. They went to a hotel, where trouble occured, and this afternoon the bride of a day arrived here, hotly pursued by her husband. She managed to board a train while he was searching for her and started homeward.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16, 1897.

Nothing more contemptible is recorded in the annals of American politics than the plot, for plot it undoubtedly is, to attempt to force the retirement from the Cabinet of Secretary Sherman by misrepresenting not only his words and acts, but his mental condition. Secretary Sherman was never stronger mentally than he is today, but even if it were true that his mental faculties were beginning to feel the advance of age, his long and honorable public service would entitle him to sympathy, in place of the sneers and inuendoes which have been and are being meted out to him in the columns of the democratic and assistant democratic press. Of course, everybody knows that the principal object of these political ghouls is to injure the republican party in Ohio at the coming election, but, as the average of intelligence among Ohio voters is as high as that of the voters in any state in the Union, this nasty plot will be more likely to react upon its concoctors than to injure the Republican party or Secretary Sherman. The Ohio voters are likely to have an opportunity to judge for themselves whether the mental faculties of Mr. Sherman are as strong as ever, as he intends making some speeches in the state during the campaign, if his health continues as good as it is now.

No surprise was felt by those who knew the animus of the charges made against Constructor Bowles, who is in charge of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, when acting Secretary Roosevelt made public his full approval of the report of Commander C. H. Davis, who made a complete investigation of all the charges against Mr. Bowles. Not only does Mr. Roosevelt approve of the report exonerating Mr. Bowles, but he adds that it was because Mr. Bowles was doing his duty so faithfully and conscienciously that attacks were made upon him by those who wished him to do otherwise.

Comment is heard on all sides on the marked disinclination of all the prominent democrats to talk for free silver. This has been specially noticeable since silver commenced to decline in price again. Among themselves heretofore ardent democratic silverites have not hesitated to express their admiration for the manner in which Boss Gorman hedged on the silver question in the Maryland democratic platform, and there is very little doubt that many of the National democratic leaders regard free silver played out as a battle cry, and are engaged in hunting a new phrase which they can use to bamboozle the voters. The death of the free silver craze is also regarded as the end of the candidacy of Byran. Meanwhile the country grows daily more prosperous, and the people know that they owe their returning prosperity to the faithfulness with which President McKinley and the republicans in Congress kept the promises made in the last National republican platform, and knowing it are not likely to pay any serious attention to any new experiment that may be proposed by the beaten and demoralized democratic party. A majority of the voters in 1892 trusted the democratic party to their everlasting sorrow and four years of distress, but they wont do it again.

WORD comes from the States in which active political campaigns are on this fall that the gold Democrats are making rapid inroads in the ranks of the Silvercratic party, and will carry off thousands upon thousands of men who last year voted the Bryan ticket, but who now see from the devolopements since that time the folly and unwisdom of the silver cause.

Thousands of people are subject to bowel trouble in some of its various forms. Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry is an unfailing remedy in all such cases.

Buildings Unroofed.

HICKSVILLE, O., August 15.—A terrific storm swept over this city this afternoon, doing $10,000 damage in the town alone in unroofing and otherwise injured buildings. The loss to crops in the surrounding country is great.

FOUGHT THEIR DUEL.

Prince Henri and Duke of Turin Came Together.

PARIS, August 15.—The Count of Turin and Prince Henri, of Orleans, fought a duel with swords at 5 o'clock this morning in the Bois De Marechaux at Vancresson. M. Leontiff acted as umpire. The fighting was most determined and lasted twenty-six minutes. There were five engagements, two of which were at close quarters. Prince Henri received two serious wounds in the right shoulder and the right side of the abdomen. The Count of Turin was wounded in the right hand. Prince Henri was taken to the residence of the Duc de Chartres and received medical attendance.

The condition of Prince Henri, of Orleans, is as satisfactory this evening as could be expected. The doctors, after consultation, have expressed the opinion that no important organ was touched, but absolute rest is necessary for recovery. Owing to rumors at Naples and elsewhere the public had not expected the duel to come off. It was therefore quite private. The official account furnished by the seconds recites fully the circumstances leading up to the encounter.

The Count of Turin, considering the letters of Prince Henri, of Orleans, to the Figaro offensive to the Italian army, wrote to him on July 6 demanding a retraction. This letter could not be answered until August 11, the day of the arrival of Prince Henri in France. The Prince replied to the Count's demand by telegram, maintaining the right of a traveler to record his experience.

The official account then describes the arrangements for the duel, gives the names of the respective seconds and says at their first interview they agreed that the encounter was inevitable. By common accord the conditions were settled as follows:

The weapon to be the duelling sword; each combatent to use that of his own country, but the blades to be of equal length, either combatent to be at liberty to maintain the ground he gains, and each to be allowed the space of fifteen metres within which to advance or retire, each assault to continue four minutes; the combat to be resumed in the positions occupied and only to terminate on the decisions of the four seconds or the advice of the doctor, when one of the adversaries is manifestly in a state of inferiority, the conduct of the meeting to be intrusted alternately to the two parties, lots being drawn at commencement.

This latter feature of the arrangement was due to the formal objection of the seconds of Prince Henri, of Orleans, to the direction of the encounter by a fifth party. At a later meeting yesterday the seconds decided upon the rendezvous.

The proces-verbal then proceeds to describe the encounter. It says that in the first assault Prince Henri was hit in the right breast, though the weapon did not penetrate beyond the subcutaneous cellular tissue. On the strength of the report of the doctors the seconds decided that the combat must go on.

The second assault was stopped because the combatants came into close quarters.

In the third assault the Count of Turin was hit in the back of the right hand, but the weapon did not penetrate beyond the sub-cutaneous cellular tissue.

In the fourth assault the umpire, Major Leontieff, declared that the sword of Prince Henri was bent and stopped the engagement long enough to furnish the prince with a new weapon.

In the fifth assault the combatants again got into close quarters and were immediately stopped. Prince Henri, in a counter blow, being hit in the right lower region of the abdomen. The doctors on both sides examined the wound and declared that Prince Henri was rendered by it clearly inferior to his antagonist. Major Leontieff and M. Mourichon proposed that the combat be stopped and this was done by common accord.

While Prince Henri's wound was being dressed, raising himself upon the ground, he extended his hand to the Count of Turin, saying: "Allow me, Monsigneur, to shake hands with you." The Count extended his hand.

The physicians present were Doctor Toupet and Dr. Hartmann, on behalf of Prince Henri, and Dr. Carle, on behalf of the Count of Turin.

This account of the fighting was signed by the seconds.

The Round Cotton Bale.

Probably more people go to the Exposition to see the round-bale cotton press than any other single object on the grounds of the Tennessee Centennial Exposition. A prominent hotel clerk said: "Visitors come in here every day, and a large number of them always inquire about the cylindrical press. Its fame has spread all over the country and the people are anxious to see the wonderful machine in operation." Those who have visited the exhibit in Machinery Hall have gone away highly pleased with its work and tell their friends about the wonders that it accomplishes.

The round-bale system is far ahead of the old way of compressing cotton. The bales are small, compact, neat and easily handled. During the process of baleing the fibre of the cotton remains in its original shape and when the bales reach the mills they are in splendid condition. They are not ragged nor torn; the cotton is not dirty.

It is the wonder of all cotton men and they say it is the cotton press of the future.

The Old Liberty Bell.

Everybody will rejoice that the Liberty Bell is going to the Tennessee Centennial Exposition. Joseph S. Carels, of Nashville, a prominent Mason, writes the following interesting sketch; "It possesses peculiar interest to me, from the fact that I am possibly the only one living that rung the old bell before it was cracked. You will remember that it was cracked while tolling for the death of Chief Justice Marshall in 1838. My father lived on Chestnut street, above Sixth, nearly a block west of Independence Square. With other little boys, the Square, or "State House Yard," as it was called in that early day, was our play ground. Old "Tommy Downing," who had charge of the building, lived with his family in the steeple, and used to ring out the fire alarms. The Old Liberty Bell used to be rung at sunrise on the Fourth of July, and the evening before, on one occasion, the old man got several of us little fellows to promise to come up in the steeple at sunrise next morning and ring the old bell. Of course we were there in time, and very proud we were to have the privilege of ringing the Old Liberty bell. Mr. Downing was a friend of my father, and as a little boy I was quite a favorite with him. So, you see, I will have a very peculiar interest in seeing the old bell."

At John Brown's Grave.

The position of John Brown in history has ceased to be a subject of dispute. To the body that lies a-mouldering in the grave at North Elba and to the soul that went marching on until the shackels had been struck from 3,000,000 of slaves, the president of the United States yesterday lifted his hat in reverent salute and paid the tribute of hushed silence. The first president to visit the rugged resting place of this rugged figure, Mr. McKinley, gives a certain official sanction to the recognition, now long since accorded by the American people, to the right of John Brown to a niche in the gallery of martyrs to the cause of human liberty. Even the most questionable act of his life, the retaliatory massacre at Pottawatomie, has become accepted as the throwing into the scale of the sword, the bloody instrument by which the nation was to purge itself of the crime of slavery.

When President McKinley stood with bared head by that grave among the northern hills, in the midst of the tract that Gerrit Smith offered for free negro colonization, there must have swept through his mind a train of eloquent reminiscence. He might have recalled the ancestry of Brown, direct from the Mayflower voyage in search of liberty, and for three generations devoted to the abolition of slavery. He could have pictured the gradual development of this character upon lines of simple strength complicated by the eccentricities of fervid enthusiasm and prophetic vision. He doubtless recalled that struggle between the pro-slavery and the free-state settlers for the possession of Kansas—a struggle that has since been called the skirmish line of the civil war, in which Brown took active part. He remembered the imprisonment of Prudence Crandall. He certainly dwelt in sorrowful reverie upon the raid at Harper's Ferry, the hopeless plight of the leader and his twenty-two companions, the final capture, the trial and sentence, and the execution at Charlestown in accord with the stern mandate of the law. But the body that dangled from the gallows in 1859 is now honored as sacred dust by the chief magistrate of the republic that passed through the throes of a war to achieve the cause for which the martyr died, and that gave birth to the party for which Private and Major McKinley fought.—New York Mail and Express.

The School Girl.

At the beginning of vacation how tired she feels, how languid she appears, how sallow she looks. But, after weeks of rest and romp in the open air, what a change takes place. Buoyant, healthy happy, laughing face. New blood, new nerves, new brain, Nothing which man has devised is quite so good to work all these changes as Nature. But if, for any reason, one is deprived of the necessary vacation, is tied to the house by work or debility, what should she do then? Pe-ru-na is Nature's own remedy. Next to the healing powers of Nature is Pe-ru-na. Pe-ru-na makes new blood, new nerves, new muscles new brains. Pe-ru-na is the staff upon which the woman can rely in all of her vicissitudes. Mrs. H. A. Tyner, Four Oaks, N. C., says: "My daughter was very weak, was greatly emaciated, had no appetite, pain in her chest, cough. The doctors could not help her. We thought she would die. A few months' use of Pe-ru-na cured her. We believe that it saved her life."

Every mother should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book, written expressly for women. Sent free to women only by The Pe ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus Ohio.

Quite a Serious Storm.

NEW YORK, August 16.—Reports from up the state tell of much damage done by lightning during today's storm. The most serious loss was at Copenhagen, Lewis county, where Plank & Nellis' saw-mill, valued at $20,000 was destroyed.

A cyclone passed over the eastern end of Fulton county, three farm houses and many barns and other buildings being completely demolished. Many people sought refuge in their cellars. Mrs. Robinson and son, who live near Broad Albin, ran from their house when they saw the storm approaching and threw themselves on the ground behind the barn. The structure was blown down and both were seriously injured. The barn buildings of Thomas Steele, among the finest in the country, were demolished. All the buildings on the Hartwick farm, including the residence, were destroyed.

Every Time, Every Place, Everywhere they Triumph—There's Proof of This in Bellefonte.

Step by step onward. Day by day confidence increases, Success merits reward. Bellefonte people appreciate "a good thing." They praise it when they find it. No praise too great for the little conqueror. The little bad back wonder worker. Backs that ached, ache no more. Strength to weak backs has been restored. It's just the same as if they are lame. The lameness goes because it cannot stay. Bad backs are but bad kidneys. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure them. They reach the spot. Easy to prove that this is so. Ask your neighbor.

Ask Mrs. Elizabeth Derr, High street. She will tell you all about her late trouble personally. Here is the gist of her experience: I am not a young woman by any means and my health is not what it was at one time. For a number of years I have had kidney disease, which has caused an almost constant backache. The least exertion increased the pain. Contracting a cold had the same effect. I am troubled with my nerves and cannot sleep well as a rule, but when you add to it distressing pain in the loins rest at night is an impossibility. It struck me that Doan's Kidney pills might help me and I went to F. Potts Green, the pharmist, and got a box. They greatly helped me. The first box made a decided change. The backache has left. I sleep much better and my appetite is slowly returning. I hold Doan's Kidney Pills in high estimation and only hope they may do as much for others as they have done for me.

The people who supposed that Mr. Bryan is at all embarrassed in his free-coinage theories by the fact that the value of silver in a dollar has fallen from 53 cents in the last campaign to 44 cents at the present time, evidently do not understand Mr. Bryan. A man who could have the assurance to urge that the Government ought to permit everybody to put 53 cents' worth of silver into a coin and pass it for a dollar can just as well argue in favor of that privilege for 44 or 24 cents' worth of silver.

TRAINING FOR THE KLONDIKE.

Rules of Conduct for Those Who Propose to Hunt Gold.

In the Klondike country the argonaut from this country, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean, will have to be specially equipped physically to stand the rigors of an Arctic winter and the hardship of possible hunger. A course of training may be necessary for the astute young man who has never been farther northwest than Logan square.

For those who contemplate making the trip to round up all the gold dust that lies concealed under the Arctic circle, a man versed in hygiene suggests the following rules of conduct:

Ride on the front seat of the grip car in winter.

Eschew overcoats and underclothing.

Spend two hours a day in the "zero" room of a cold storage warehouse.

Keep your head cool.

If you play cards at all confine yourself to freeze-out.

If married, ask your wife to let you build fires on January mornings.

If single, send your sweetheart a cook book and call the next evening. Your reception will be of a temperature low enough to inure you to most any climate.

Give your friends a cold stare when they greet you.

As you will have to pack your grub from Juneau to Dawson you will need some muscle. Ask the janitor of your building to call on you when he wants coal carried up to the top flat.

Bathe in water in which ice is floating. It calms the nerves.

Rock the baby to sleep each night in the cradle. The exercise will accustom you to the work you expect to do in your mine.

Partake sparingly of the following menu once every other day: Ice. Cutlet of dog. Snowflake muffins. More ice. Tallow a la mode. Lard frappe. Some more ice. Frosted pine cones. Fricassee of icicle. Chipped iceberg. Sperm candle, chilled. Glacier puffs.

After a month of this diet two more months should be spent in fasting. If, at the end of this time, you still yearn for sudden wealth you will be in a condition to go, barring, of course, accidents and sickness.

Our Steel Rails Going to England.

LONDON, August 15.—The Iron monger has been investigating the recent underbidding of English steel rails makers by American manufacturers. It is ascertained that an East Indian railway company invited tenders for 7,554 tons of rails, and English rails were offered at an average of $27.50. The American quotation, understood to come from the Maryland Steel company, was $23.50, delivered at Calcutta. This tender was accepted, together with a tender for accessories, which was also very low.

The secretary of state for India says that further orders for rails for India have been placed in the United States. The Bengal and Nagpur Railroad company recently accepted 2,000 tons from an American firm at $23, compared with $27.25, which was the British bid. Lord George Hamilton adds that the quality of the material was tested before acceptance by an official sent to the United States.

Strange Balloon Adventure.

London Chronicle.

A French aeronaut named Cabalzar met, says our Paris correspondent, with a strange adventure just above the deserted mountain forest district near Annecsy. Feeling that the balloon was being pulled violently, he looked out, and was amazed to see a gigantic eagle climbing, with extended wings, down the ropes toward the car. Here it remained, staring fixedly at M. Cabalzar, till the balloon neared the ground an hour afterward, when it was frightened away by the shouts of a crowd of peasants.

Officially Dead.

The English courts have officially declared that 8,000 men are dead. The world knew of it fourteen years ago, but this is only a sample of the law's delay. Probably there is nothing left on the bare face of the African desert of all these fellows now but the bones—dry as the law. Yet the English courts have just given the official death certificate, as it were.

The dead men were the command of Hicks Pasha, who went into the Eastern Soudan in 1883 and never came back. They were massacred to a man by the wild "Fuzzie-Wuzzies." Hicks Pasha was an Englishman in the Egyptian service who was going to the relief of Tokar, where an Egyptian garrison was beleagured by the Arabs. He had between 8,000 and 10,000 men, mostly Egyptian troops, with a few hardy Soudanese and Englishmen. Not a man of them ever returned. They were attacked outside of Suakim and cut off. When the field was visited later it was seen that the officers had fought their own troops in an effort to keep them from running away. The Arabs had killed the soldiers as they ran.

With them died Edmund O'Donovan, the noted war correspondent, whose body was never found. For years people believed he would turn up in Central Africa, as he was the most resourceful man in the business. He had disappeared before and thought dead. But now the English probate court has declared a member of the force officially dead, and there can be no doubt of their fate—although they did die fourteen years ago.—Pittsburg News.

Business Booming in Bryan's Home

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 16, 1897.—Despite Mr. Bryan's prophecies that business could not improve without the free and unlimited coinage of silver, Lincoln his own city, is enjoying a marked improvement in all lines of business. It is generally conceded that business is very much better than this time a year ago.

SOMEBODY has expressed anxiety lest Mr. Bryan and his followers should have difficulty in finding something to say in the present campaigns. They will plenty on their hands, however, if they attempt to explain how it is that wheat has gone up 23 cents per bushel since last fall's campaign, while silver has dropped 10 cents an ounce in the same period. It is noticed that silver men are singularly silent on this point.

CERTAINLY A GOOD CIRCUS.

A Show Given That Was Really Worth Three Times the Money.

Welsh Bros. circus has been here and gone and they leave behind them the highest praise of our town people. There was never a more gentlemanly crowd of men in our town, than they brought here on Monday. The street parade in the morning was beyond expectations. The music in itself was grand. In the afternoon the performers were greeted by a crowd of nearly a thousand people, and everyone that were there say the show was worth much more than was charged. We would like to go into detail and tell how every performer played his or her part, but our time and space is limited. Mr. Newton very kindly presented us with the names of the performers and what part they had in the show. They are as follows:

Kerslake's pig circus was something immense; and then Messrs. Scanlon and O'Brien acted the part of the clowns and certainly amused the audience. Phenomenal Walter, ceiling walker, was another actor in this show that needs special mentioning; and then West and Zanta, the double trapezists, were beyond the common run of trapeze performers. Harry Delmain, juggler, came next. He showed the remarkable control he had over rolling balls and sharp-edged knives. Dan Rice, Jr., and his trick mules were on hand and greatly pleased the audience.

We would like specially to mention M. Scanlon and O'Brien, who so ably amused there listeners with wit and humor. M. O'Brien is certainly a circus in himself, and all through the performance there was nothing to offend the most fastidious person present.

And here we would like to say in closing a few words about the proprietors of this clever little performance. The Welsh Bros. themselves are both perfect gentlemen and carry with them one of the finest little shows on the road. And Mr. Clinton Newton, who is the descriptive orator, is certainly a very pleasant, fine looking and congenial gentleman in every respect, and we know he won a number of warm friends during his one day's visit in Bellefonte, and we feel assured that if this circus returns to this town, they will not have enough seating capacity for the large crowds which will greet them. We wish them much success wherever they may go.

An Ohio Mayor Shot.

CALDWELL, O., Aug. 13.—Word has been received here from Sarahsville, this county, that a serious shooting affray took place there at night. Mayor John Mercer, it is said, was discovered at the rear of Dr. W. S. Sprigg's residence. The doctor, who is of a jealous disposition, thinking that Mercer was waiting to meet Mrs. Spriggs, fired at the Mayor with a shot gun. The charge took affect in Mayor Mercer's head and inflicted probably fatal injuries.

FINDING A NURSE.

"It is a tremendous worry," said Vansittart, feebly, rubbing his hair the wrong way and sighing.

Dr. Musgrave laughed.

"I wish I could help you," he returned. "I know a young woman who would have suited you in every respect. I can vouch for her character. She has been with some friends of mine as nurse, and is highly qualified. Unfortunately she has a situation."

"London teems," groaned Vansittart, "with nurses who would have suited me in every respect, but have just got a situation. Any one else?"

"No one else at the moment. I'm sorry to say. Have you advertised?"

"I sent two advertisements to the Post, and had seven applicants in reply. Seven! And of those three wore spectacles and one had apparently had a paralytic stroke. It is most inconsiderate of Robbins, upon my word."

"Robbins is the nurse who is leaving you, is she?"

"She is; but she is more—she is a treasure. I do not think I ever valued Robbins as she deserved till she gave me notice. She has been with the child ever since my wife died—three years—and I have never had a moment's anxiety or trouble. The responsibility of being a widower with a helpless baby to take care of is simply keeping me awake nights. The interviews, too, are rapidly giving me gray hairs. I betray my deplorable ignorance at every question. There ought to be a book published on the subject, 'Hints to Widowers Engaging a Nurse.' The wretches see my nervousness, and attempt to bully me when I say they won't do. One girl does seem all right, however. She came from the registry office this morning."

The respectable practitioner rubbed his hands and smiled.

"Well," he said, complacently, "then your worries are over, after all. You mustn't look for too much, you know. You mustn't expect perfection. You have got a suitable girl—the bother is over.

The widower glared.

"Over!" he echoed. "Why, I've got to go and inquire about her references. I must journey down to Twickenham, or Surbiton, or somewhere, intrude on a woman who has never heard of me, and catechise her till I shall be positively ashamed of myself! Never lose your wife, doctor. You're a medical man—take every precaution. To be the father of a delicate child without a woman to engage a nurse for her is the most awful position possible for the human mind to conceive."

He was of the same opinion next day when he found himself giving a nervous rap at the door of the trim little villa that proved to be his destination. Vaguely also he was conscious that his own house compared badly with this maisonette. The geraniums in the flower boxes bloomed more freshly here, the arrangement of the window curtains was more graceful. There was a spotlessness about the doorstep itself which he missed at home.

"Is Mrs. Hillary in?"

She was in. He was requested to walk into the drawing room. He contemplated its screens, china, photographs and ferns with augmented jealousy. Verily, a woman was indispensable to a house, and this one, he imagined, must be a nice woman. The things about seemed to attest it. Perhaps, therefore, she would be the more likely to help him through the interview with kindness. He had the masculine dread of ridicule, and the thought that he would look absurd inquiring whether a servant was honest, sober, truthful and competent was awful to him. He turned as the door opened.

"I have taken the liberty of calling," he began, and then he broke off with an exclamation, "Madge!"

"Frank—Mr. Vansittart! Is it possible?"

"More—it's a fact. But—how extraordinary! And you haven't changed a bit!"

She laughed.

"And you didn't know it was I you were coming to see?"

"I hadn't any idea of it," he explained. "After all these weary years—and I didn't even suppose you were in England. I came—it sounds very silly—I came about a nurse's character."

"A nurse? You are married, then?" said Mrs. Hillary.

"I married four years ago. I have been a widower for three. I have one child—a girl."

There was a little pause between them. He fingered his gloves, and his hostess played with a paper knife.

"Your husband is well, I trust?" asked the visitor at last, with an effort.

She gave a palpable start. They had once been so much to each other, and now he did not even know she was a widow.

"I lost him," she murmured, "soon after our marriage."

"I—I beg your pardon. Poor Frank. We used to be very good friends before—at one time, I should say. You have a child?"

"Bertie—a fine little fellow he is! You must see him before you leave. Of course you will stay to luncheon."

"I shall be very pleased to. How strange it is to see you again, Madge. You have forgotten my hasty words when we parted, I hope?"

"I am afraid I deserved them," she confessed humbly. "We were both young and hot-headed. I am glad no harm was done. You were happy in your married life?"

"Y-e-s," he said, "oh, yes, I was happy. And you?"

"Frank was very kind and indulgent," she murmured. "Oh, I don't suppose I merit any pity. But tell me—I did not understand—you have really come about a servant's character? Who is she?"

"She is, I think, a 'Sarah Brown.'" He consulted his letter case. "Yes, her name is Sarah Brown. I want her for the child, if she is capable. Please recommend her if you can. Another disappointment will kill me."

"You want her so badly?"

"I want some one very badly—Sarah Brown or otherwise. You can form no idea of what it is to be a father, Mrs. Hillary—Madge. The responsibility of engaging a nurse is rapidly shortening my life."

"Poor fellow!" said Mrs. Hillary with compassion. "Well, I should think Brown would suit you very well indeed. She is quite qualified, and in fact I am rather sorry I parted with her.'

"Why did you part with her? You see I'm becoming an fait at the business. What was the cause of her leaving you?"

"Temper," she replied. "But to be quite candid, I'm not sure the temper was not on my own side. Anyhow, I can give her a good character to you or to any one else."

He heaved a great sigh of relief.

"Then that's settled. How glad I am it is over. You can't think how I dreaded this interview with an unknown 'Mrs. Hillary,' but somehow with you it wasn't difficult at all; even the domestic part of it. You were always reliable, Madge—always with one exception, that is to say. That is a likeness of you on the mantelpiece. May I look at it?"

He took it down and scrutinized it attentively.

"Good," he said, "distinctively good. They've caught your expression. When was it done—recently? Indeed! It It might be the girl I took down to supper at the Richmond's ball seven years ago." He put the frame back and turned his gaze to the original. "So might you," he added. "I'm a middle-aged man, and you are just the same. Do you remember that night? You treated me very badly, Madge."

"You were very ungenerous, you mean," she retorted gently.

"Ungenerous? Nonsense! Three times—three waltzes running you gave Hillary against my express request. Well, well, poor Hillary's gone, and here are you and I, two lonely folks, meeting again by the merest chance. Are you lonely?"

"Sometimes a little lonely," said Mrs. Hillary. "But I have my child, you know, and you have yours. She must be a great comfort to you. I should love to see her."

"If I might bring her to you one day," he said, "it would please me awfully. She never sees a woman except the servants, from one month's end to the other. Nor do I. We vegetate in that big gaunt house, the child and I, in a manner that is positively pathetic.

The maid now announced that luncheon was served, and they went into the dining room together.

"If," continued Vansittart, when he had drunk a glass of sherry and was turning his attention to salmon cutlet, "if you would look us up occasionally when you could spare the time, it would be real charity on your part. It would, indeed. Not alone to the baby, but to me. You—you make me younger, Madge; you make me forget seven whole years."

"Seven whole years?" echoed the lady.

"Actually. In imagination I wear a rose in my buttonhole again and am particular about the fit of my gloves. What an enchantress is a woman! You do all this in an hour with a few kind words."

"It would be very startling," said Mrs. Hillary, "if you really wore a rose. Come, let me find you one. And—yes—I must certainly make time to look you up one day. Your condition, as you describe it, sounds simply dreadful."

She selected a rosebud from a glass on the table, and taking advantage of the servant's absence pinned it in his coat.

"That is better already," she said contemplating him critically, her head on one side.

"Do you know I think it was a very fortunate thing for you, my poor old hermit, that Fate threw you in my way again? A few years more by yourself, and you would have been beyond repair. Now you may still be done up."

"With care," agreed Vansittart, "with great care and skill I incline to think it is possible. There is one thing, though, that continues to trouble me. Supposing Sarah Brown should leave? You have given me a nurse, and I can view Robbins' retirement with equanimity; but supposing Sarah should want to desert me too?"

There must have been more significance in his tone than in his words, for Mrs. Hillary blushed, and for a moment trifled with her strawberries nervously.

"Sufficient for the day," she murmured.

"Is the good it has given me," he concluded. "Well, perhaps so. It has certainly been a very generous day indeed. But you won't forbid me to look forward to the morrow, will you? A day like this without a to-morrow would be as bad as an hors d'oeuvre without a dinner."

"In some ways," said Mrs. Hillary, "look forward for to-morrow by all means—if it should be fine, you may pay me another visit, with the child."

The gold Democrats are making large accessions to their ranks everywhere and expect to poll a much larger vote this year than last.

The Populists of the country are thoroughly disgusted with the treatment which the Democracy have given them, and are developing the greatest hostility to further attempts at fusion.

THE silver orator who was so concerned about the dear farmer last year ought to be happy now. The farmer is the most prosperous man in the country to-day.

THE poor Wilson law has had a hard life of it. Kicked and cuffed by everybody, including members of its own party, its decease has been hailed with delight by all.

"GENERAL PROSPERITY," of whose whereabouts ex-candidate Bryan was anxiously inquiring a few months ago, has put in its appearance, and Bryan and his followers are silent on that subject.

The beneficial effect of the new tariff law upon business is very promptly and clearly seen. Thousands of men and women have been given employment since its passage was finally assured and large numbers of manufacturing eatablishments which were suspended or running on short time have resumed work.

THE people who attempted to make the people believe a few months ago that Secretary Sherman had passed the period of active usefulness are saying nothing more on that subject. Secretary Sherman's expressions of views on current political topics are clear, crisp and vigorous, and strike a responsive chord in the hearts of every American citizen.

THE money in circulation in the United States has increased about $30,000,000 in the past year, the price of foreign products has advanced, and the business of the country has greatly improved despite the assertions that nothing but the free coinage of silver would bring an increase of money or prices to the people of this country.

The free traders are giggling with ghoulish glee over the fact that the exportation of manufactured goods under their low tariff has increased over $118,000,000 over that of 1892. They do not say a word, however, about the fact that the importation of manufactured goods increased much more than that under their low-tariff law, and that this compelled the American manufacturers to either suspend business or sell their goods abroad at whatever they could get for them.

WHEN Bryan assumed with an affectation of solemnity, to be a student and a man of deep thought, he begged the people who came out to see the show to "study this silver question." He had looked into it. Oh, yes, he had even studied it! And he said wheat would soon be down to twenty-five cents a bushel if silver were not made free at the mints! The people have had an object lesson in the rise of wheat and the fall of silver at the same time, and as the country rises in prosperity Bryan falls.

Their Mutilated Bodies Found.

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio, August 11.—The mutilated bodies of David Deitrich and wife were fonnd in their home to-day, three miles south of the city, on the Carlisle pike. They were found by a grand-daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Watson who went to the house on a visit.

The bloody ax was found, showing how they had been murdered. The motive was robbery, as the house had been ransacked throughout. The old couple had not been seen since Monday and it is possible they were murdered Monday night.

Mr. Pattison Non-Committal.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Regarding recent rumors connecting him with the Gubernatorial campaign of next year as the Democratic standard-bearer. Robert E. Pattison had this to say to a reporter to-day:

"I do not know of any reason for such a report unless it comes at a time of the year when we can look for almost any kind of a political sensation. Mr. Hensel has been in Europe for the last two months. I have not seen Mr. Harrity to discuss politics with him for six months. Indeed, I have been making such a desperate effort to get at the head of the column of 'general prosperity' that I have had little time to think of anything else."

Still Quarreling Over a Boundry Line.

LEWISTOWN, Pa., August 13.—The boundary line between Huntingdon and Mifflin counties over which there has been so much dispute of late has been again prominent for the past few days. The Democrat and Sentinel to-day says in regard to it, in part, as follows:

One of the claims of the county commission, in fixing the valley water shed, was that the water which entered a sink hole east of Allensville reappeared at Hazlett's spring, west of Allensville, near the lived-to line. As stated by our Allensville correspondent, the Hazlett spring was found by survey to be higher than the sink hole. To still further test the matter, however, two barrels of crude oil were emptied into the sink hole last week. We learn this morning by telephone from "Richard" that this oil has made its appearance at David C. Rupert's spring, one and three-fourths miles north of McVeytown, and six or seven miles east of Allensville.

To reach its outlet the oil had to run in the neighborhood of twenty miles and under mountains nearly the entire distance. The spring this morning was covered with the crude oil, rendering the water unfit for use. From this test it shows the trend of the water to be toward the southeast, thus, if the water shed is to be the dividing line, placing all the disputed territory in Mifflin county.

DURING August Harper's Bazar will contain interesting articles on "Alaska Bracelets," by Eliza R. The Corrupting Ballot Box.

HELEN MORRIS LEWIS, PREST. N. C. E. S. A.

Women of ordinary intelligence are staggered by the bold and convincing manner in which it is so commonly asserted that politics are too corrupt for women, and that the cesspool of the ballot must be avoided by the gentle sex, Such assertions are made on the presumption that man is a superfine article, and like solid silver-ware, it matters not how blackened and corroded he may become; a little brushing up and he is as beautiful and as bright as ever, We poor women are suppose to typify the cheapest kind of Britannia ware; by the slighest blemish we are undone for ever: the magic touch of Alladin can never restore our pristine luster.

If a woman must necessarily become polluted by entering the political arena, why is she not contaminated by intimate association with those who have occasioned this moral leprosy? And yet amid this noble army of men who so heroically guard the honor of American womanhood by shielding it from the dangers of the ballot, we hear no mention of one of them condemning himself to celibacy or shunning matrimony for the lofty idea that his society would degrade and debase women. Oh, no! the weakest woman on earth issupposed to be invulnerable to a 365 day's contact with the originator of corruption, but would be smirched in ten minutes by approaching a ballot box once a year.

Is Life Worth Living?

If there is an individual on earth who is excusable for thus interrogating himself it is the unhappy mortal who suffers from malaria in some one of its dire clinical forms This is no difficult conundrum, however. Life is worth living by any man or woman who enjoys good health, and is not harrassed by a reproachful conscience. The malarial scourge, heavily laid on, is a terrible one for the poor sufferer to endure. A series of freezings, scorchings and sweats—the last leaving one as limp and as strengthless as a dish rag, are hard indeed, recurring as they do with fiendish regularity. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the world-wide known preventative and curative of this class of maladies, either in the form of fever and ague, bilious remittant, dumb ague and ague cake. Used with persistence, they will, rely upon it, eradicate disease from the system. They also conquer rheumatism, kidney and bladder complaints, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver complaint, and constipation, and renew failing strength.

Grange Picnic.

About 400 grangers from the country districts of Blair county picnicked at Lakemont park Thursday. In the forenoon Prof. John Hamilton, deputy secretary of agriculture and author of the Hamilton road bill, spoke to the grangers at a meeting in the theatre on "The Hard Times and Who is to Blame?" at 2 o'clock there was more speech making in the theatre. Lt. T. M. Fleck, of Sinking Valley, presided. The speakers were Attorney Geo. W. Plummer, of Chicago; R. S. Seeds, of Hundred Springs and Col James F. Weaver, editor of The Patron, published at Bellefonte, Centre county. Professor Hamilton again made an address in the afternoon.

Col. Streator Retired.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 12—Maj. James E. Barnett was to-night elected lieutenant colonel of the Tenth regiment over Col. James R. R. Streator, on the first ballot by a vote of 13 to 10. Col. Streator, who is retired by the result of the election, enlisted in the National guard as a private in company H, January 25, 1881; he was appointed adjutant of the regiment in 1882, reappointed adjutant in 1885, and the same year was elected lieutenant colonel, which office he has filled up to the present time. Lieut. Col. Streator considerable notoriety during the Homestead riots by ordering Private [illegible] suspended by the thumbs and drummed out of camp for expressing approval of the shooting of H. C. Frick.

Maj. James E. Barnett, Col. Streator's successor is deputy secretary of the commonwealth. He enlisted in 1884 as a private in Company H, also, in 1884, advancing by successive steps as corporal, sergeant and lieutenant, to the captaincy in 1890. A year later he became major. He is very popular with the officers of the regiment and respected by the men.

This election leaves a vacancy in the majorship, which, after the 15th ballot, had not been filled, the vote being: Capt. L. M. Porter, Company H, 11; Capt. Bierer, Company C, 11; Capt. Munson, Company D, 1. Others voted for are Capt. Laird, Company I; Capt. Crago, Company K, and Sheldon B. Hayes. Washington. The contest is spirited.

Art too Bad to be Cured.

Death Pulls the Trigger.

A man doesn't have to pull the trigger himself in order to commit suicide. He doesn't even need a gun or any kind of weapon. All he need do is work hard and at the same time neglect his health. Death will do the rest. Men nowadays are all in a hurry. They bolt their food, and get indigestion and torpid liver. The blood gets impure. When the blood is impure, sooner or later something will "smash." The smash will be at the weakest and most overworked point. In a marshy country it will probably be malaria and chills. A working man will probably have a bilious attack. A clerk or bookkeeper will have deadly consumption. A business, or professional man, nervous prostration or exhaustion.

It isn't hard to prevent or cure these diseases if the right remedy is taken at the right time. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the appetite keen, digestion and assimilation perfect, the liver active, the blood pure and the nerves steady and strong. It drives out all disease germs. It makes rich, red blood, firm flesh, solid muscle and healthy nerve-fiber. It cures malaria and bilious attacks. It cures nervous prostration and exhaustion. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption, bronchial, throat and kindred affections. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser contains the letters of thousands who have been cured.

'I have been one of your many patients, by taking Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Perlis Cook, of 140 W. 3d St., Covington, Ky. "Your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery' have saved my life when it was despaired of."

Miners on the March.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., August 12.—With "Old Glory" flying at the head of their column and to the music of fife and drum, one hundred Springfield miners started today on their march to Decatur, Ill. Vice President Archel, of Dawson is leader. Strikers are marching over an old wagon road. En route they will pick up 150 miners at Lincoln, fifty at Dawson and fifty at Riverton. At Niantic to night they will hold a general conference preparatory to entering Decatur to-morrow. The marching miners are observing the strictest discipline and are orderly. They have a large commissary and say they will have no trouble getting the men out at Decatur. Col. B. B. Ray, Governor Tanner's special commissioner, left here for Niantic to-day. There he talked with miners, operators and authorities and then proceeded to Decatur.

DECATUR, Ill., August 12.—One hundred and fifty Springfield miners are marching here to force the Decatur miners to strike. The sheriff will meet them and endeavor to keep them out of the country. He has already 100 deputies and the city placed under martial law.

Saltpetre Instead of Salts.

A peculiar suit has been instituted at Huntingdon in which Mertie J. Norris, a country lass, brings an action against G. W. Ewing, a merchant of Mount Union to recover damages of $1,000. Mertie alleges that upon the advice of physicians she sent her father to Mount Union for either Epsom or Rochelle salts; that Ewing negligently sent for her use pulverized saltpetre, the 480 grains of which she took within a half hour. As a result she alleges she has been afflicted in body and mind.—Ex.

Arrived in Madrid.

MADRID, August 11.—The remains of the late premier of Spain, Canovas Del Castillo, arrived here this mornihg from Santa Agueda. The body was met at the railroad station by the ministers, members of the diplomatic corps and the civil and military authorities of Madrid and its vicinity. Immense crowds of people were assembled about the depot.

The coffin was placed in the waiting room at the station, where prayers were said over the remains. The latter were then conveyed to the residence of the late premier, escorted by a company of iufantry, with band and colors. Inside the mansion a chapel had been arranged with two altars and masses were continually celebrated until noon, when the public was admitted to view the body.

Golli, the anarchist assassin of the Spanish prime minister, was taken today from Santa Agueda to Verzara, where he will be tried. On arriving at his destination, Golli said: "My Calvary has commenced A priest will try to convert me and the usual comedy will be gone through. I remember what happened to the others," mentioning the names of all the anarchists who have been executed in France and Spain.

Injured By a Prisoner.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., August 11.—Enoch Shaw, the city jail turnkey, was attacked to-night by a prisoner who tried to escape. The turnkey was seriously injured in the scuffle and was taken home in the ambulance. J. A. Anderson, a prisoner who was arrested for larceny, asked Shaw to come in his cell to mop the floor. As the turnkey entered he snatched the mop and jammed the handle of it into Shaw's stomach, lacerating it severely. He then shoved the jail official over an iron bed and he dashed out of the prison. His escape was noticed. A large crowd gave chase and he wes captured about a square away. The turnkey is severely injured internally.

They Know Their Passengers.

The student of Sociology will find a good many of the old New England ways still enough alive to travel on rural trolleys. On one line in Boston's suburbs the conductors and motormen know their passengers. The other day a conductor excused his hurry in making change by saying he had to "look after Mrs. Blank, 'cause she's lame." Having helped that lady to reach terra firma, the conductor resumed the collection of fares, beginning with a little girl, of whom he asked: "How's father's cold to-day, Annie?" Needless to say that the conductors are "Johns" and "Henrys" to many of the patrons. The line is well operated, for the old New England democracy always knew how to get there on schedule time.—Boston Evening Transcript.

New Works Started Up.

DU BOIS, Pa., August 11.—The new Du-bois Iron Works were put in operation to-day. The plant was erected this season by John E. Dubois and will employ from 250 to 300 men when in full operation. The building is of brick and stone, 500 by 80 feet. A blacksmith shop and foundry will be attached, and the plant, when completed and fully equipped, will cost probaly a quarter of a million dollars. It is Mr. Dubois's intention to make it one of the most model machine shops in the country. The motive power will be furnished by a seventy-five horse-power gas engine.

People who are assuming that the recent great gold developments are a mere matter of gold luck to those opposing the 16-to-1 theory are mistaken. It is more than luck, it is the logic of events. The fact that the world prefers gold to the bulky white metal as its medium of exchange has stimulated the production of gold everywhere until it seems likely to supply the needs of the world for a money metal.

FASHIONS AT NEWPORT.

Yachting Suits—Dinner Dresses—Organdies—Jewelry—Hosiery.

As gray crash has palled somewhat upon popular taste blue or crimson have been brought forward, not of deep colorings, but having colored threads running one way, thus casting rather a reflection of color, than that of a decided hue. These then are the fashionable fabrics for yachting suits, not, however, to the exclusion of linen or pique; and still another new crash has dashes of genuine color. Plain skirts and "reefers" with small revers and a double row of pearl buttons down the front and jaunty-looking pockets trimmed in harmony are the regulation style. Jackets lined with a color which shows on the revers, and not unfrequently in a plain inch-wide band on the skirt, is a pretty addition, or a blue cloth jacket and white skirt is an attractive yachting dress.

THE POPULARITY OF BLACK CHIFFON

Ruffles on capes and dinner dresses is overwhelming, and a costume of black net woven in fancy open squares, seen at a recent dinner, is an illustration. The underskirt was of brocaded silk the predominating colors being crimson, brown and yellow, edged by a plain brown and plain crimson silk ruffle. The lower edge of the net skirt was finished with a double ruffle of satin-edged chiffon. The brocade waist was covered to the shoulders at back and front by plaited black chiffon woven in clusters of black satin stripes. An openwork black silk passementerie yoke, having leaf edges and lined with crimson silk, forms the upper part of the waist, and from under these fancy edges shows a tiny black chiffon plaiting. Brocade is used to line the net sleeves, and the caps are edged with double chiffon ruffles. A side effect is obtained by white lace and plaited chiffon running from the left shoulder to the waist. The collar (lined with crimson) bristles with ruffles, and a very wide black satin sash is looped at the back.

AS A CONTRAST

To such elegant costumes, are lovely organdies, quite as charming in another way, and suitable alike to maid or matron. One worn at the Casino was particularly charming from its simplicity. The material was in trailing vines and pink flowers, and the skirt had one ruffle, put on with a heading, and both sides edged with lace. Down every seam of the skirt (from the waist) inch-wide pink satin ribbon was run, ending just above the ruffles in a bow and short ends. Across the full front were three lace ruffles, headed by rows of very narrow pink satin ribbon. Three organdy frills trimmed in harmony with the front were set in the arm-hole, and rows of lace make up the elbow sleeves, which are finished by lace and ribbon. Cerise ornamentations on black dresses are more in favor just at present than white and black, certainly much less trying to pale, delicate persons.

HEART-SHAPED OR CIRCULAR BROOCHES

Nestle among the rich laces or stand out on satin collars worn by the very wealthy people who frequent this place, the former composed of a single amethyst set in pearls or diamonds, or else a multitude of small stones with a superb emerald or diamond blazing in the centre. Circular brooches are simply rings of precious stones, rubies and diamonds alternating, or any other expensive stones, and range in size from a three cent piece to that of a silver dollar. Heart-shaped ornaments are a "fad" for the moment, and the newest bracelet has a heart of precious stones which may be used as pendant on a very delicate chain, this device applying to brooches as well.

HAIRDRESSING

Is altogether too heavy for the season; the weighty Pompadour roll and its attendant cushions conveying an appearance of discomfort; the light, fluffy coiffure, with a simple figure 8 at the back, or a few French loops, affording a most pleasing contrast. Plaided or checked hosiery is in extreme favor for all but high dress occasions, when lace work, or colored embroidery on black are called nto requisition; a stylish freak, however, is the weaving of Yale blue stockings with tan or "ox blood" shoes. Footless bicycle hosiery has the great advantage of being easily drawn off, and over a thin stocking and half-high shoe it is just the comfortable thickness. Cotton feet, with woolen above, is also desirable, and checks, plaids, gray or crimson mixtures are all supplemented by gay, contrasting "cuff tops."

VERONA CLARKE.

Gone to Klondike.

Thomas Switzer, a well-known young man of Philipsburg, Centre county, left on St. Louis express Thursday night for the Klondike gold fields. It is not his intention to dig for gold. He is a "tender-foot," pure and simple, and knows nothing of the intricacies of mining precious metal, but if he gets a chance to stake out a claim that will assay about $1,000 to the ton and the assaying facilities are handy he will not turn up his nose at the opportunity to make a little extra spending money.

The chief business, however that takes him to the land of ice and snow is the sale of dynamite. He represents a firm that manufactures that explosive and he wants to demonstrate to the good people who have gone to the Yukon country to dig a fortune that there is no necessity to lose time trying to thaw out the ground. Pound a stake into old mother earth until it makes a small hole, insert the dynamite, touch it off and it does the rest. A large hole is torn in the earth and all a man has to is to jump into it, gather up a couple of hundred thousands of dollars' worth of gold nuggets, come home and live like a lord.

Switzer had a fall overcoat and a dress suit case with him when he left here. He may need the overcoat before he returns. A couple of other Philisburg fellows, Hoover and Hughes, were going with him, it was said, but if they are they must be going to join him somewhere between here and the great forests of pine trees, for they were not visible around the station last night.—Fridays Altoona Times.

A group of silver statesman have just left for Japan and China to search for new arguments in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. It looks like a rather poor time to undertake a task of this sort, when Japan has already gone to the gold standard and China is contemplating the same step.

A FEW days ago there were strange dispatches from Mexico—"Gold at 125 per cent premium. Business paralyzed." Why should business be paralyzed in a free silver country, a "bimetallic country" like Mexico by a premium on gold? How does it happen that free silver is not the medicine to cure this trouble? The old farmers who hear the voices of the silver screechers telling how the gold standard hurts the toilers on the farm and in the shop should ask for an answer to this question and insist upon getting it.

A Bee Story.

Messrs. Martin Cooney and John Stevenson, two enterprising citizens of this place, while picking huckleberries the other day on the Muncy mountain, one mile from town, discovered a bee tree. The next day they surreptitiously took their wives' raiment, went to the mountain, where they donned the petticoats, frocks, hats, gloves and veils of their better halves, and cut down thee bee tree. In attempting to secure the honey they were badly stung by the busy bees, and for their trouble secured little honey, but considerable comb, and arriving at their homes received such a "combing down" from their good wives that they will remember it as long as they live. The dresses used were full of bees and bee stingers, and the rest can be better imagined than described.—Williamsport Grit.

CONVENT IN CATACOMBS.

The following extract taken from a chapter in Baron de Baye's book on the convent in the catacombs of the Cathedral at Kiew describes perhaps the most unique institution of its kind in Russia, we might say, in the world: —"This subterranean convent is also called Laura. In Russian Laura is synonymous with 'convent;' in modern Greek it signifies 'little cells.' This catacomb monastery, made illustrious by the virtues of its first founders, Theodore and Antoine, preserves in its immense subterranean passages the incorruptible bodies of its ascetics and its miracle workers. Here is shown the tomb of the monk Nestor, the first Russian historian.

"There are fifteen hundred monks at the Laura of Kiew. He who would study the ethnography of Russia is at liberty to dwell for a certain length of time in this monastery, which forms a little city in itself. Here will be met representatives of every race in Russia, for pilgrims flock here from every part of the Empire. Nothing can be more picturesque than their encampments in the courtyards and gardens surrounding the old Cathedral.

"When I entered this temple for the first time evening vespers was being celebrated. The walls of the edifice were completely hidden by the plaques of gold and silver covering them and by the gorgeously bejewelled golden frames surrounding the images, before which were burning hundreds of multi-colored lamps, held by so invisible a wire that they resembled more a golden glittering shower of raindrops than sanctuary lamps. Through the clouds of incense and the glimmer of thousands of candles, more brilliant and luminous than any I had ever seen before, the saintly images had the appearance of being off in the great distance. On the main altar the figure of the patron saint scintillated in its aureolas of diamonds.

It was impossible to approach the sanctuary, the distance which separated me from it seemed impassable. The tiling had disappeared entirely under a multitude of prostrated humanity, pressed closely one against the other, rising sometimes to make the sign of the cross, and prostrating themselves to the ground again to kiss it. They resembled a human ocean, now calm, now agitated, from the bosom of which prayer arose in the form of a long sigh or the vibrating song of faith.

"And deep down, under all this gorgeousness, stretched corridor after corridor of subterranean cells, catacombs in which only the dead have been thought to dwell, and deprived of light, air, ventilation—fifteen hundred men lived this death in life existence. It is true they have spacious gardens in which to roam at certain hours, but their devotions, their duties, are all performed in these living graves; they sleep and eat there, and before them is the constant image of their certain 'death,' around them are the mumified bodies of their former associates."

TELEPATHY WITH A DOG.

The Exhibition Given by Mr. Davis Before the Boston Scientific Society.

W. E. Davis of Boston possessess a dog that does things which his master thinks are the result of telepathy. He gave an exhibition of the dog recently before the Boston Scientific Society that aroused an immense amount of interest.

Among the score or so of performances by the animal was one that necessitated the exercise of something that approached very closely to human intelligence. Mr. Davis first spread out red, blue, salmon and yellow handkerchiefs in the order prescribed by the spectators. The dog picked them out as suggested by those who witnessed the test at the mental commands of Mr. Davis. The dog apparently paid no attention to the commands of the spectators and Mr. Davis never repeated the order, but simply said: "You heard what the gentlemen said. Bring it." The dog brought it in each case.

Similar experiments were made with four numbers on blocks, five silver pieces, and numbers on a slate. Several times the number was not spoken, but simply written on the slate or indicated with the fingers. Mr. Davis was blindfolded several times during the test, but it did not seem to make any difference, as Dodgerfield, the dog, had some way of understanding his master's wishes.—New York Sun.

SEDAN CHAIR COMES AGAIN.

It is Reported that Fashionable Women will Try to Make Them Popular.

While New York is trying to accustom itself to the novelty of the horseless carriage, there has commenced in London a demand for the sedan chair as a vehicle of fashionable travel. One firm, according to a newspaper paragraph, is busy in the manufacture of these relics, which of recent years have proved useful only as ornaments or on the stage.

The new chairs are not to be decorated as of old with paintings or gilded mouldings, but the colors popular for the decoration of ordinary vehicles will be used. They will be painted black, dark green, blue or maroon, with light yellow, green and red for trimmings. The chairs will be very light, and the promoters of the scheme are said to expect their profit from the use of the vehicles for evening parties, dinners or other gatherings where the distance to be travelled is not great.

Other passengers will not be carried, and the interior of the chairs will in this way be kept perfectly clean, and gauze or dresses of light color are not likely to be soiled.—New York Herald.

THE DANCING PILGRIMS.

A Strange Ceremony Which Seems to Bring Happiness to the Performers.

On they go through the streets, over the rough cobbled roads, for nearly two miles, till they come to the flight of steps leading to the church. Up these steps, sixty-four in number, they dance forward and back, ever with the same motion. Right up to the church door do they dance. Into the church, up the gospel aisle, through the sanctuary they go. Round the high altar, down the choir, down the epistle aisle, out through a door into a church-yard, still dancing as they go, and three times round the churchyard cross finishes their share of the pilgrimage.

The scene in the church when the pilgrimage is at its height, about noon, is something indescribable. The nave is packed with people kneeling and praying aloud. The bands are playing their loudest, perhaps two or three regardless of each other. The north aisle is one thick mass of bobbing humanity getting nearer and nearer to the high altar. In the sanctuary they go in single file, still dancing, of course, and as they get nearer the altar they give their rosaries and other pious objects to some priests who are busily employed in laying them on the sacred relics. As they dance round at the back of the altar they can see the tomb of the saint they venerate. I was standing for some time in the sanctuary watching the curious sight, and was much struck with the pale, exhausted faces, which, though worn and streaming with perspiration, were lit up with a most peaceful, happy light. There is one stream of dancers passing through the church till after 1 o'clock, when the clergy return to sing the Te Deum and close the pilgrimage with benediction. Fancy, for over five hours this dancing goes on! About midday I asked the official counter how many had passed; he said already some 22,000 dancers and 240 musicians. This was more than an hour before the pilgrimage closed.—From the Catholic World.

HOTELS IN CHINA.

Not the Most Comfortable Places in which to Sleep.

The hotels are usually grouped within a square or two of one another. Each one seeks to attract guests by high-sounding titles. For instance, in Canton are hotels which flaunt the signs of "The Fortunate Star," "The Golden Profits," (an unusually frank confession for a landlord to make,) "The Rank-Conferring," and "The Happiness." The food is not so bad, but the traveler who goes to one of these houses to sleep will wish that he had gone to another. The bedrooms are small, thin-walled boxes in which you may hear the breathing of your next neighbor or be kept awake half the night by the conversation of people at the other end of the hall, or worse still, be almost stifled by the smoke from an opium pipe which is being indulged in by the man across the passageway.

One house of entertainment peculiar to China is the dog-and-cat-meat restaurant. This does not mean that household pets are brought there to be fed, but that Tabby and Fido are served up in stews. According to prices charged for other food, these stews are rather expensive—especally if the cat or dog chanced to be black, and therefore more nutritious, according to popular notion.—Lippincott's Magazine.

His Idea of American Women.

According to the Rev. Dr. F. E. Clark, American women are thus referred to by the Swami Vivekanenda, the Hindoo who was so popular with women while he was in this country: "When a woman goes to find a husband she goes to all the bathing places imaginable, and tries all sorts of tricks to catch a man. When she fails in her attempts she becomes what they call in America an 'old maid,' and joins the church. Some of them become very 'churchy.' These church women are awful fanatics. They are under the thumb of the priest there. Between them and the priest they make a hell on earth. They make a mess of religion. With the exception of these the Americans are a very good people. They loved me very much. I loved them. I felt as though I was one of them."—New York Tribune.

The French Prize for Virtue.

Paris has such a world wide reputation as a center of gilded gaiety that there is a popular idea, in certain quarters, that the French capital cares little for the virtues, Christian or otherwise. As a matter of fact, it is probably the only city where a reward for virtue is publicly awarded each year by a great official institution.

The prize is one of those distributed annually by the French Academy, and this year the medal was given to Mlle. Hocart, an enthusiastic mission worker in the slums of Paris. That no prejudice influenced the award is easily believed when it is known that Mlle. Hocart is the daughter of a Wesleyan minister, and Catholic France has no love for the Wesleyans.—The Puritan.

He Changed His Mind.

A man went to a local boxing instructor the other day and asked him how much he would charge him for twenty-five lessons. The instructor told him his terms, and the lessons commenced. After two lessons the pupil, who was somewhat the worse for wear, remarked to the professor: "You see, I wanted to take enough lessons so that I could learn enough about the manly art to lick a man. I've changed my mind now. I guess I will send the fellow down to take the rest of the lessons."—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Laid to Rest at the Old Home.

On Saturday morning, August 14, 1897, from dark and low'ring clouds, the sun shone forth in all its beauty upon the mortal remains of Mother Irwin as they journeyed to their last resting place on the beautiful hilltop at Jacksonville, there to rest in the "quiet city of the dead," with loved ones gone before, until the resurrection morn.

The services at the home of her son Robert were short and impressive. A quartette, composed of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meyer, Mrs. Harris Mann and J. Malcolm Laurie, rendered beautifully "My Jesus, As Thou Wilt," and "Come Ye Disconsolate," after which Rev. Dr. Stevens, of Bellefonte, read a comforting Scripture lesson and offered a fervent prayer.

The funeral cortege then proceeded on its way. Upon arrival at the Lick Run Presbyterian church, where she had been baptized in infancy, the services were conducted by Rev. Wharton, of Howard, who spoke in an earnest manner of the new life the deceased was now beginning to live and of the happy Spiritual life all of God's ransomed ones are now enjoying, closing with a beautiful exortation to those who still remain "To have faith in God and go forward" until the time when He shall say, "Come up Higher."

The choir of the church sang "She Sweetly Sleeps" and "Bury Me at the Old Home" in a feeling manner.

After the Scripture lesson Messrs. Bert Bayard, of Bellefonte, and E. J. N. Harkness, of Altoona, warm and loving friends of the deceased, sang a sacred duet entitled, "When My Life Work is Ended."

At the conclusion of the services an opportunity was given to look upon the face of one they had known and loved in days gone by, after which the remains were borne to her last resting place by John Holmes, Jr., Richard Holmes, James Holmes, Jr., Frank Thompson, D. A. Irwin and J. Will Mayes, all nephews of the deceased, and there
